PRIVATE BANK SHUT; SAID TO OWE $250,000

Excited Crowds of Depositors Thronged Barry Exchange During Run.

PATRONS FROM COUNTRY

President Smith Leaves to Investigate Condition of Hartford Provision Co.

GIVES A TRUST DEED

Protest of Draft Drawn by Illinois Institution Precipitated Failure.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSFIELD, Ill., Sept. 20.—The Barry Exchange Bank, the third oldest in this county, closed its doors Monday. It was a private bank, organized by its present President, Eugene Smith, in 1872, and regarded as one of the strongest institutions in the county.

Monday Mr. Smith executed a trust deed to W. W. Watson of Barry, conveying for the benefit of creditors 600 acres of land in this county valued at $30,000, and also some holdings in Kansas and Texas.

No statement of the bank's condition has been made, but it is rumored that the failure was precipitated by protest of draft drawn on the Hartford Provision Co. of Hartford, Conn., to whom a credit of $30,000 had been extended.

This company maintained a pork-packing house at Barry and a number of purchasing agents in the county.

Nothing has been heard of the condition of the Hartford Provision Co., although Mr. Smith is there now investigating. While nothing is known of the exact condition of the bank its liabilities are estimated at $250,000, owed to people residing in the community.

Run Started Saturday.

The withdrawal of Dr. Sykes of Beverly Township from the bank about a year ago, followed by that of M. T. Stauffer, a very wealthy resident of Barry, who had acted as cashier, and his father, Christopher Stauffer, one of the wealthiest farmers in Adams County, had caused some comment and for a considerable time there has been a gradual withdrawal of deposits, culminating Saturday in a run upon the bank in the afternoon by residents of Barry.

The country patrons did not learn of the situation until Monday, when the streets were crowded by excited depositors. It was necessary to clear the streets reveral times.

Many women were interested, and the scenes were affecting. The closing of the bank means the closing of the provision company's plant, depriving 60 families of work.

A meeting of the depositors is called for this afternoon. No other financial institution was interested, and the loss is confined to the patrons of the bank. Judge Carter of Quincy, Ill., ex-Supreme Court Judge, will represent the depositors.

HURRYING HOME, FALLS TO DEATH

Child Squeezes Through Third Floor Railing at Nursery School.

Anxious to hurry home to her mother, little Rosa Bierman, 3 years old, child of A. Bierman, 1319 North Eighth street, fell four stories at the nursery of the United Jewish Charities Association, Ninth and Carr streets, before noon today, and was instantly killed.

The child was one of the class of Miss Mariette Comfort, the members of which had just started to march from the third to the ground floor, having been dismissed for the noon recess.

Lifeless, the body was picked up on the cement walk at the bottom steps of the basement stairway. A hurried, but futile run by an ambulance was made to the City Hospital. The child's neck was broken.

The agonized mother, informed by a messenger that her child was injured, ran four blocks to the scene of the accident and held the little girl in her arms during the ride to the hospital.

She was frantic when she learned of the death. She hurried from the hospital and walked to her home, attracting the attention of wondering persons by the intensity of her grief.

Miss Comfort said little Rose was her smallest pupil. The child was of a restless disposition. She had not yet learned to speak English. The pupils are required to march down the steps, with one hand on the balustrade to keep in line and to prevent falling. At the top on the highest step, Rosa stopped and peered through the balustrade railing into the depths below, 45 feet.

More than a score of children were ahead of her and the teacher thinks she did not wish to wait until they had all passed down in the slow march.

Miss Comfort, standing on the middle landing, could give no warning. The child was forced to squeeze itself to get through the railings and an inspection later makes the feat look impossible.

Past Miss Comfort fell the little girl, striking both the first and second floor landings, to the cement floor of the basement. It is believed death was instantaneous.

WARMER TONIGHT BALMY PROMISE

Weather Forecaster Sees Nothing but Indian Summer in Sight.

St. Louis weather is not to be an exception to the Indian summer conditions general throughout the United States.

Today's official forecast: Fair tonight and Thursday; warmer tonight; southerly winds.

The Upper Ohio Valley is about the only section not sharing in the atmospheric perfection.

There is lower temperature in the Northwest, and it is warmer in the Rockies, but neither has gone to anything like an extreme.

4 TRAINS CRASH; ST. LOUIS WOMAN AMONG INJURED

Illinoisans in Wreck on the Southern Pacific Near Reno, Nev.

BELIEVE MANY ARE DEAD

Body of One Man Recovered—Surgeons and Nurses Sent to Scene.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 20.—Partial reports are that 25 persons are injured and one man, George Wareman, is dead as the result of a terrible head-on collision on the Southern Pacific, between two freight trains, followed by the rear-end collision of two passenger trains at a point nine miles west of Beowawe, between 6 and 7 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The wreck, from the reports given out, was caused by one of the engineers on the freight trains running contrary to orders.

An effort was made to stop the incoming trains, with success for the first section of No. 3, though a moment later the second section plunged full speed into the first section. Many more deaths are expected when complete details are in.

Among the long list of injured was Mrs. Anna Higgs or Higgins of St. Louis, Mo., who was caught in a jam of wreckage and badly bruised in the left side. She was also injured internally and was unconscious when taken from the debris.

Physicians, nurses and supplies in addition to three wrecking trains were rushed at once to the scene to render aid to the suffering. The office at Sparks will not give out any definite details.

The railroad has just started a special train said to contain four badly injured passengers for the Railroad Hospital at San Francisco.

The Injured.

A partial list of the injured in the wreck on the Southern Pacific at Beowawe, Nev., follows:

Mrs. Anna Higgs, or Higgins, St. Louis, bruised left side.

William Knox, 2703 Dearborn street, Chicago, injuries to back and side.

Mrs. Isabella Phillips, Stony Point, Tex., bruised on head and left breast.

Mrs. Thomas Mason, Paulsburg, N. J., badly injured internally.

Mrs. T. Mason, Paulsburg, N. J. (another woman), badly bruised and cut about head.

Mrs. W. C. Halsey, Eagle Grove, Io., injured in abdomen.

R. C. Davis, Tabor, Ill., injured about head.

Mrs. Fanny Droiner, Manly, Io., injured about face and side.

H. C. Brown, 505 Jackson boulevard, Chicago, cut on right cheek.

TAX DODGERS SEEK SOLACE OVER PHONES

Besiege Circuit Attorney With Requests to Rectify Assessments.

ONLY $25,000 IN ST. LOUIS

That Amount Is Returned by Its Citizens as Taxable.

GRAND JURY GETS NAMES

Indictments Expected as Result of Rigid Investigation.

"Hello."

"Hello."

"Is this Circuit Attorney Sager?"

"Yes."

"Well-er-a this is ——. I just discovered that I made a slight mistake in my tax returns. My assessment was $3500 instead of $3,500,000. It's only a slight mistake, but I am anxious to have it rectified"—buzz buzz buzz—

Haunt Telephones.

The Circuit Attorney and members of the grand jury are annoyed by telephone calls from tax dodgers since they began their investigation of alleged returns on personal property and assessment of real estate.

Frightened voices haunt the telephone wires leading to the Circuit Attorney's office. "Is it too late to correct a little mistake?" is the constant inquiry.

Names for Grand Jury.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Johnson is today going over the records in the office of the President of the Board of Assessors, getting names of men to be summoned at once before the grand jury.

The list of names is already a long one.

Some startling things are shown by the returns. For instance, according to the documents on file and sworn to by St. Louisans, there is only $25,000 of cash owned in St. Louis!

The surprising nature of this showing is better understood when the bank statements show deposits of more than $200,000,000.

There is a belief in the Circuit Attorney's office that at least one-half of this cash is owned by St. Louis people, and that the difference between that half and $25,000 represents one phase of the tax dodger's skill.

One retired wholesale merchant whose tax returns show $200,000 worth of property, swears he has put $150 cash. The various pawnbrokers swear that they have very little personal property and practically no cash.

Refuses to Take Oath.

One rich and especially prominent man takes the lead in dodging both taxes and violation of an oath. He doesn't take any oath. He refuses to make returns, and leaves that for the Assessor. It is estimated that the assessment is several hundred thousand dollars below the right figure.

There are others who have adopted this plan.

Another favorable method of dodging the taxes on cash is to make large purchases, at tax return time, of Government or State bonds, which bear no taxes. Immediately after these bonds have served their purpose, they are sold and the cash passes back to the credit of the citizens.

It is expected that the grand jury will begin the real work of investigation by the examination of confidential clerks and bookkeepers Friday.

MOTHER BURNED BUT SAVED BABY

Little One's Dress Caught Fire From Gas Stove in Kitchen.

Baby Leola Brown, 2 years old, is at the Deaconess Hospital, Sarah street and West Belle place, in a serious condition from burns on the body, neck and head. Her life was saved by her mother, Mrs. Lyda Brown, of 3961 North Eleventh street, who was also burned about the hands in rescuing little Leola.

The child was playing near a gas stove at her home Wednesday and her dress became ignited. She screamed and her mother rushed into the kitchen.

Mrs. Brown seized a heavy rug and threw it about the child's body. Then she rolled little Leola over and over on the floor, finally extinguishing the flames.

Taking the child in her arms the mother carried her to North End Dispensary, where the injuries of both were treated by Dr. Henckler. Then Mrs. Brown took Leola to the Deaconess Hospital.

WOMAN FINED FOR CRUELTY.

Mrs. Edith Douson of 4217 Lee avenue was fined $25 by Judge Bishop in Criinal Court of Correction Tuesday on a charge of cruelty to her 9-year-old stepdaughter, Grace Dodson. By order of Judge Bishop the child was taken from her custody a week ago. She pleaded guilty and paid the fine.

W. C. T. U. "RESOLVES" ON GOV. FOLK

The K. C. W. C. T. U.'s risen
And of the ways of Governor Folk has voiced a loud complaint;
They say they've heard he takes a drink,
And, anyhow, he needn't think
That just because he "seen and done his duty" he's a saint.

The lid—on Sundays—they like, but 'twould be better
By seven times, the ladies say, if the Governor only would Close up the bars on other days
And take a reef in his own ways.
They took away his halo. He can't have it till he's good.

FOLK IS NO HERO DECLARE WOMEN

W. C. T. U. Expresses "Hope" That He Will Quit Drinking.

DID HE REALLY DRINK?

The Women Disagree on This Point and Talk of Affidavits.

Gov. Folk, his private bottle and the Sunday closing law were a troublous trio in Tuesday afternoon's session of the Thirty-first District Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, according to advices received in St. Louis from Kansas City, the scene of the convention.

The ladies worked themselves into a condition of fine indignation and much excitement before they officially got through with it all, and even yet, it is said, there is much difference of opinion among individuals and much freedom in the expression thereof.

The trouble began when a resolution was introduced declaring Gov. Folk was neither hero nor saint for "doing what he was paid to do," but, nevertheless, commending him for enforcing the Sunday saloon closing law and expressing the hope that he would soon give his personal example for total abstinence and total closing of saloons.

The resolutions committee wanted the resolution to go through as it was. Mrs. Carrie Lee Carter Stokes, chairman of this committee, declared with much positiveness:

"Gov. Folk drinks. I know he drinks. He does it publicly on railroad trains, and has his own bottle. If he does it there he will do it anywhere."

There were cries of "the idea!" and "did you ever hear of such a thing?" and while they were yet rippling through the convention room Mrs. C. B. Longan arose. She was instantly indignant.

Talk of Affidavit.

"There is not a woman in this room," she exclaimed, "who dares make affidavit that Gov. Folk drinks now, drank on the railroad train, or ever did drink in his life, for that matter. I move that the personal part be stricken out."

Supporters of Mrs. Carrie Lee Carter Stokes were shocked.

"Who ever heard of an affidavit being required in a meeting of women?" they said. "Certainly not. And besides, there is not a notary public here."

This for You, Governor Folk

Resolved, That while we do not consider in the light of a saint or a hero any official who simply does what he is elected to do, and has sworn to do, still the Thirty-first District Women's Christian Temperance Union must heartily commend Gov. Folk for his faithfulness to duty in enforcing the law against the sale of liquor on Sunday, and hopes that the time will soon come when he will also give his personal example and influence for total abstinence and the closing of the saloons every day in the week.

WOMAN PLEADS FOR TRAIN ROBBER

Laura Bullion, Just Out of Pen, Seeks Reduction of Ben Kilpatrick's Term.

To plead for the reduction of the 15-years sentence imposed upon Benjamin Kilpatrick, the notorious train robber, Laura Bullion, his "pal," who was sent to prison at the same time, came to St. Louis Wednesday, having just been released from the Jefferson City Penitentiary, after completing a five-year term.

She was at the locked door of the United States District Attorney's office long before office hours Wednesday.

When Assistant District Attorney H. L. Dyer arrived, Laura Bullion introduced herself and began her plea.

Kilpatrick is confined in the United States penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga. He was found guilty of robbing a Union Pacific train in Montana.

He got away safely with $80,000, only to be caught in St. Louis, where he was passing United States bank notes which were a part of the spoil. The notes were unsigned when he received them and he forged signatures. This led to his detection and that of Laura Bullion, who had an apartment in the Laclede Hotel. Some of the bank notes were found in her possession, and she was convicted as an accessory.

Laura Bullion, who is 30 years old says that during her five years of imprisonment she has kept up a correspondence with Kilpatrick. Now, she says, she will go to Atlanta to see him as soon as she can get a health certificate for southern travel.

WEBSTER GROVES SHOCKED.

A sensation was caused in Webster Groves Tuesday by the appearance on the streets of Thomas Newman Holsworth, divested of all his garments. He claimed he was the Savior. After a chase Marshal Nace captured Holsworth and took him to the St. Louis Insane Asylum.

BURDEN TO MOTHER BOY, 15, THOUGHT

Took Morphine When He Was No Longer Able to Work.

Some boys follow their fathers to sea, others to war, and some follow their steps in the great professions, but George Elliott, aged 15, recovering from morphine at City Hospital, followed the example of his father, by attempting suicide with the same drug, three years after his parent's death.

"My father was once wealthy," said Elliott to a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday, "but he lost not only the hotel in which he was interested but his dairy farm, in the Galveston flood.

"He went to work as a bridge carpenter, but couldn't bear up against despondency and killed himself with morphine at Hearne, Tex., July 3, 1902. When I lost my position as a dairyman in Meramec Highlands, what was more natural than I, too, should wish to die as my father had done?

Would Help Mother.

"Out of work for two months, from blood poisoning, I could not bear to see my mother, 65 years old and accustomed to every luxury, go out to work washing silverware in a hotel. I am only 15, but am big and strong and able to support her. My arm is well now and I can surely get something to do at dairying or hotel work.

"My father worked at both, but we all prefer dairying. I feel that I can be as good a dairyman as my brother, James, who is with the Missouri Creamery Co., in Kansas City. He makes $100 a month.

"This attempt at suicide was no sudden freak. I had been thinking about it for two months. My married brother, Claude, and his family left Union Station for Texas Tuesday. I wanted him to take me with him but he would not.

Mother Takes Him.

"I had no trouble getting the morphine. Just went to a drug store, to'd them I used it and they sold it to me. Then I went home where my brother-in-law, Arthur Kidwell, found me and walked me till a policeman sent me here."

His mother came to take him home. She told the boy that all their troubles were over and that they were to go to his brother in Kansas City tonight. She had quit the hotel, she said.

"Now you can work in the creamery," she said. "You need never think that you are a burden to me."

Elliott and his mother left the hospital together to pack their belongings at 3422 Laclede avenue, where they were living.

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes.

NEW YORK LIFE PAID $235,000 TO AGENT AT THE LEGISLATURE

Given on President's Order Without Being Authorized by the Board of Directors—President McCall Makes Interesting Disclosures to Insurance Commission.

NO ACCOUNTING TO COMPANY FOR MONEY

Contributions to Campaign Funds Not So Much to Aid Republicans as to Defeat Free Silver, Says Witness—Sole Judge of Ordering Secret Expenditures.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—That $235,000 has been paid by the New York Life Insurance Co. to Andrew A. Hamilton of Albany; that no accounting for this money has beeen made except to President McCall verbally, and that Hamilton attends sessions of the Legislature at Albany in the interest of the New York Life Insurance Co., was brought out today by testimony given by Mr. McCall before the legislative Insurance Investigating Committee.

Mr. McCall said that the various sums making up the $235,000 paid to Hamilton had been given him in connection with different real estate deals, but Mr. Hughes, after considerable questioning developed the fact that none of the money had been actually appropriated to such deals.

Mr. McCall also said that Mr. Hamilton also was allowed money for expenses at Albany and that Hamilton's accounts were not subject to audit. Mr. McCall denied that he gave Mr. Hamilton money to influence any member of the Legislature, or that he advised any such course.

The $235,000 Mr. McCall said he was sure would be paid by Mr. Hamilton on demand of the New York Life Insurance Co.

"If it isn't," said Mr. McCall, "I'm responsible, and I'll pay it."

Hamilton received for legal services, he said, about $100,000 a year from the New York Life Insurance Co.

On the subject of the New York Life Insurance Co.'s campaign contributions in recent presidential years, Mr. McCall said they were given for the purpose of defeating the silver platform and for the support of the gold standard rather than of the Republican party.

As to the contribution to the Republican campaign fund in 1904, Mr. McCall said he did not care how many of the policyholders agreed with his action. He made the contribution honestly, believing it was justified, and for the interest of the policyholders.

Jerome Was a Spectator.

District Attorney Jerome was an interested spectator of the proceedings.

Willis G. Nash, cashier of the New York State Bank of Albany, N. Y., was the first witness. He produced a transcript of the account of Andrew A. Hamilton from Jan. 1, 1900, to date. This consisted of 24 ledger sheets. The account gave no particulars beyond the amounts.

Mr. Nash said only Mr. Hamilton's daughter had power to draw checks on that account.

President John McCall of the New York Life Insurance Co. was then called. After being sworn and giving the preliminary information as to his business and residence, he said he had been controller of the Equitable before becoming President of the New York Life Insurance Co., and previously had been superintendent of insurance at Albany.

He said it was true that he has drawn checks on the New York Life Insurance Co. account without the approval of the Finance Committee. He said this was almost a daily occurrence. He knew Andrew Hamilton for 10 years. Hamilton is not a relative of his, he added.

Mr. McCall said he himself is the sole judge of what checks should be drawn without authorization.

Hamilton, he said, has charge of the real estate of the company throughout the country on a salary of $10,000 a year.

About the $100,000.

Taking up the $100,000 in checks sent to Albany, Mr. McCall said in answer to Mr. Hughes that he gave them to Hamilton. He said in 1903 the company determined to buy the block in the rear of the home office, this city.

He sent for a real estate man to take up the subject quietly; the New York Life Insurance Co. was not to be known in the transaction.

In December, 1903, the real estate man reported he thought the block could be procured for $1,100,000 and that 15 per cent of this should be available quickly.

"I told him," said Mr. McCall, "that I would put him in touch with Judge Hamilton and pursuant to that I ordered the two checks in question drawn. The vouchers will show what they were drawn for."

He procured the vouchers and identified them. One was the Comptroler's warrant and the other Mr. Hamilton's receipt. The words "for temporary use" on one of the vouchers, Mr. McCall said, meant that the money was to be used for the purpose directed and to be reported back to the board. He said the $100,000 had been accounted for by Mr. Hamilton. Mr. McCall here wanted to make an explanation, but Mr. Hughes, counsel to the Investigating Committee, wanted the account as presented.

Account Rendered Orally.

The account, the witness said, was rendered orally to Mr. McCall at his office. He said Mr. Hamilton had paid out $700,000 on the Elm street property, and that there is still $235,000 unexpended. The checks were produced. They were nine in number, four to the order of John N. Golding, the real estate broker, and five to the order of Andrew A. Hamilton. These, Mr. McCall said, were checks that had been paid on the property bounded by Elm, Worth, Leonard and Center streets, New York, in 1903.

Mr. Hughes was insistent that the report made by Hamilton as to the disposition of the $100,000 should be produced.

"Has this money been accounted for?" he asked Mr. McCall.

"It has, Mr. Hughes."

"Please produce the account."

"It was given me personaly in my office."

"Please produce this account," repeated Mr. Hughes.

"It was given me personally in my office," again said Mr. McCall.

Senator Armstrong broke in: "You mean verbally?"

"Yes, verbally. The $100,000 has not all been expended."

Takes Up Real Estate Deals.

Mr. Hughes then took up every one of the real estate transactions of the company in enlarging the home office. Each one Mr. McCall was questioned on separately in an attempt to find for just what plot each of the nine checks was paid.

The plots of land bought and payments for each having been identified, Mr. Hughes said that there was still the $100,000 in Mr. Hamilton's hands.

Mr. Hughes wanted to know why the New York Life Insurance Co. should leave such a sum in the hands of Mr. Hamilton. Mr. McCall said the purpose was to enable Mr. Hamilton to be in a position to supply any moneys Mr. Golding might require.

"But Mr. Hamilton did not pay Mr. Golding any money," said Mr. Hughes.

"No; he didn't need any."

Checks for $75,000 to Mr. Hamilton in December, 1903, were also produced. They, too, did not come before the Finance Committee or any officer of the company except Mr. McCall, who ordered the signatures of the treasurer and assistant treasurer. This check was paid Mr. Hamilton on account of the foreclosure of a mortgage on the Bennett building, which was finally not used. Mr. McCall then said Mr. Hamilton had never made any accounting of these moneys and said he had caused an entry on the journal that $45,000, $55,000, $75,000 and $60,000 be charged to "suspense account."

Mr. Hughes asked if he knew of any excuse why Mr. Hamilton should keep this money and Mr. McCall replied he might be entitled to it by reason of a contract he took to recover $300,000 in taxes from the State of New York, by which he was to receive one-third. This recovery was made in the United States Supreme Court in 1904.

An Order With a Condition.

An order signed by Mr. McCall, December, 1903, was produced, ordering the payment of $50,000 to Judge Hamilton, bearing the clause, "If he cannot close his account before the first of the year," and stating that with this would take up $25,000 already advanced by check.

Mr. McCall said this payment was made to Hamilton on account of the deal involving the contemplated foreclosure on the Bennett property.

"Was it used for that purpose?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"No."

"Why not?"

"On March 28, 1904," said Mr. McCall, "Mr. Hamilton went over with me the accounts he had with the company, which he had not yet accounted for. Altogether there was $235,000 in these accounts and by my order the account was transferred to the home office annex account."

Attended Legislature for N. Y. Life.

After more than an hour's questioning Mr Hughes brought out that Mr. Hamilton renders no account of moneys of the New York Life Insurance Co., and is not subject to audit.

DEPOSITIONS IN SUIT OF GUMBERTS' JURORS

In Taking of Testimony in Action Against Post-Dispatch County Sheriff Tells That "Jury List Might Have Been Inspected by Interested Parties."

Depositions in the suits of James Swancy, August Horle, John Stanage, Henry Kaiser, James L. Gardner and Nicholas Plein against the Post-Dispatch were resumed Wednesday morning before Special Notary Taussig in room 500 Rialto Building.

Plaintiffs were members of the St. Louis County jury that acquitted Mark Gumberts, saloon keeper and ex-race-track attache, of the charge of violating the anti-poolselling law. The case against Gumberts was tried July 24 last.

The action of the jurors grows out of the verdict in the Gumberts case. R. L. Shackelford and Senator A. E. L. Gardner represent the plaintiffs, while John F. Green of the firm of Judson & Green, appears for the Post-Dispatch.

At the previous hearing Constable John Bellairs of St. Louis County, who was chief deputy sheriff during the Hencken administration, testified that the "general impression about Clayton was that Gumberts would not be convicted."

"Did you ever talk to anyone about this jury before it was summoned?" Bellairs was asked.

"Well, I have had people talk to me about it."

"Whom did you talk to about it?"

"I have heard comments made about the jury."

"Before it was summoned?"

"No, when it was summoned."

"Who made them?"

"I have heard several persons in Clayton make them."

"What were those comments."

"Well, that it was a jury that would acquit; that seemed to be the general sentiment."

"That was the common talk out there?"

"Yes."

Sheriff Testified.

The testimony of Sheriff George Herpel of St. Louis County went to show that no system or general rule attended the selection of the Gumberts jury; that the "jury list might have been inspected by interested parties" before Gumberts was placed on trial; that the jurors were selected without regard to their standing in the community; that the eligibility of a juror was determined practically by the fact of his qualification to vote; that one of the jurors, Charles Van Studdiford, the well-known race horse owner, was suggested as a "good juryman" to the Sheriff by Mr. Herpel's chief deputy, Clarence Campbell.

Constable Bellairs swore that he had seen a number of the Gumberts jurors at the racetrack at various times during the last few years, and some of them he noticed betting freely.

Although Sheriff Hencken, according to his own testimony, visited the race-track nearly every day, he saw none of the jurors there, he said, knew little about them or their habits and cared nothing so long as they were not "drunkards or bums."

The verbatim testimony of the Sheriff is, in part, as follows:

"Have you any special rules in your office to guide you in the selection of jurors for the panels?"

"Well, no, not exactly; we get an order for a venire, we write out the summonses and put them all in one envelope and generally distribute them among the deputies; one deputy takes so many, another takes so many, and wherever we find a man fit for a juror we fill in his name and put him on."

"You mean you put 24 names in an envelope?"

"Yes, sir; 24 names—no not the names, just the empties without the names on them."

"You mean the blank summonses without the name?"

"Yes, they are supposed to be filled out, all except the names."

"Did you serve the summonses for jurors in this case?"

"Some of them."

No Regular List.

"Have you any regular list of names of citizens of St. Louis County who are qualified for jury service, that you use?"

"No, we have no particular list."

"You select the parties for jury service at random then?"

"Yes; distributed equally between the townships."

"Have you no directory containing a list of names?"

"Yes, we have a kind of county directory and we get names out of that."

"What class of citizens do you select for jury service."

"Well, good, reliable men?"

"Taxpayers?"

"Well, we are not particular about the taxpayers, just so they are qualified voters."

"What do you mean by 'good men?'"

"I mean that it is no drunkard or bum, or things of that kind."

"Do you make any effort to select jurors who are regularly employed or who are men of influence and standing in the community in which they reside?"

"No."

"Do not make any efforts of that kind?"

"No."

"You don't care whether the men whom you serve to summon on the juries are of that class or not."

"I could not afford to run around and investigate the business of men exactly."

"Is Fred Essen surety on your bond as Sheriff for $31,000?"

"Yes, he is on my bond and that is the amount he qualified for."

"How long have you known Essen?"

"Ten or twelve years."

"Do you remember discussing the names of any of those jurors with Mr. Essen before they were summoned in this case?"

"No."

"Do you remember discussing any of these names with Mr. Hencken, the former Sheriff?"

"I don't remember having done so."

"Did not Mr. Hencken ever call at your office about them?"

"I don't remember."

"Do you know Sam Adler?"

"Yes."

"How long have you known him?"

"I have known him since, oh, some time in June or July; I don't remember just when."

"Do you know Mr. Celia and Mr. Tilies?"

Knew the Cellas.

"Yes; I know Louis and Charlie Cella."

"How long have you known them?"

"Oh, I think I have known Louis about a year."

"How did you make his acquaintance?"

"Just met him."

"Where?"

"I can't recall where it was."

"Did you meet him at the races?"

"Yes, I saw him there."

"How often?"

"Pretty nearly every day."

"You were at the races pretty much every day during June and July, weren't you?"

"Yes, sir, most of the days."

"Did you see Sam Adler?"

"Yes; once or twice."

"And that is all?"

"Maybe a little more; I don't remember how often I seen him."

"Did Adler ever call at your office at Clayton?"

"Only when the trial was going on."

"Did you meet him at Autenreith's saloon at Clayton?"

"I don't know if I did."

"Don't you know whether you did or not?"

"I don't remember."

"Do you know Mark Gumberts?"

"Yes."

"How long have you known him; about ever since you took charge of the Sheriff's office?"

"Yes."

"Not before that?"

"No."

"He has a saloon out there?"

"I think the saloon is in Billy Hagerman's name; that is, the license is."

"Gumberts kept a book at the races, didn't he?"

"Kept a book, yes."

"Took bets from patrons there?"

"Yes."

"Had been for some time prior to July 1?"

"Yes, he has been mixed up there since the races started."

Delmar Paid Salary.

"Who paid the salary of Deputy Clarence Campbell, who assisted in summoning these jurors?"

"The Delmar Garden people did."

"Do you remember the name of Charles Van Studdiford being furnished to you for jury service by Clarence Campbell?"

"No, sir. He was on the panel the week before that. He came along and I says, 'I will put you on again, Charley.' I put him on myself."

"Mr. Campbell testified here this afternoon that he had recommended him for that jury. Is that true?"

"That was away early in the winter; it was not for this jury."

"He testified that it was in May?"

"I don't remember that he did. I remember Campbell introducing Van Studdiford to me and saying he would like to get him on the jury. He said, in a joking way and I said all right, I will put him on and I did so."

"But was in May?"

"It was early in the spring."

"If he says the time in May that would probably be the time, wouldn't it?"

"I have got the record of that time. Just brought this book for that purpose." (Witness produced memorandum book from pocket and examined it.) "No, that was on July 10."

"That he introduced Van Studdiford to you?"

"The time when I met him in July."

"And told you that he would make a good juryman?"

"I remember it was all just in a joking way."

"Do you remember talking to ex-Sheriff Hencken about this jury one day before it was summoned?"

"No, I don't."

"Do you recall that he gave you a list of names of some parties who would make good jurors to try the Gumberts case?"

"I don't remember."

"You don't remember?"

"No."

"And he did not talk to you about it?"

"Not that I remember now."

"Did you ever see Mr. Gumberts between the time the information was filed against him and the time of this trial?"

"I may have seen him; I don't remember."

"Were you down at his saloon during that time?"

"Oh, yes, I stopped in there occasionally."

"Did you ever hear any talk around Clayton that the jury was going to acquit Gumberts?"

"I never did."

"All that talk circulated around there generally and never reached your ears?"

"No."

"Never did?"

"I don't remember it."

"Who is your attorney out there?"

"Senator Gardner."

"Did he ever talk to you about this jury?"

"No."

"Did he not suggest some of the names to you?"

"No."

"He is also attorney for the Delmar Jockey Club, isn't he?"

"I don't know anything about that."

"After one of the raids on the Delmar Jockey Club wasn't Mr. Adler in consultation with you and Gardner and Prosecuting Attorney Johnston out there?"

"No."

"At Gardner's office?"

"No."

"In some attorney's office there?"

"No, it was after the trial we were in there and I had some money in a grip which I had in my charge, and"—

"After which trial?"

"After the Gumberts trial, I think."

"After the Gumberts trial?"

"Yes."

"Wasn't that before there were any trials out there?"

"Not that I remember?"

"Can you fix the date of that meeting?"

"No."

"What makes you think it was after the trial?"

Met After Trial.

"I know that; I remember that because I got the goods—the money; they had $50 or $60 in a grip and they demanded the money and the goods back."

"Adler demanded the money?"

"I don't know who demanded it; there was a bunch of men there and discussing it. Johnson told me to go over and get the grip with the money and deliver it."

"Is that all that occurred at that time, just what you have told us here?"

"Yes, that is all that I remember."

"That is all you remember?"

"Yes."

"Do you remember whether you furnished Fred Essen or Mr. Hencken a list of the jurors before the case was called for trial?"

"I don't remember."

"Could they have gone into the office and gotten the list?"

"Well, I suppose they could."

"You would have given it to them if they had asked for it?"

"I don't know. Maybe I would."

Deputy Sheriff William Olderworth testified that he summoned four members of the venire, but he did not know how he came to select them. He was not familiar with the custom of the Sheriff in summoning a jury. He did mostly outside work, he said; hence, he said, his unfamiliarity with the rules of the Sheriff's office.

NO SUCCESSOR TO CHAS. PARSONS YET

No Quorum of Bank Directors for Election for a Month.

There will be no election of a successor to the late Charles Parsons as President of the State National Bank for at least a month. John H. McCluney stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter that only six of the 15 members of the Board of Directors are in the city and until there is at least a quorum the election will be deferred. Vice-President L. F. Jones is acting as President.

Since election by promotion has been the rule of the bank in the past Mr. Jones' election to succeed Mr. Parsons is thought likely.

Local financial circles have the rumor that an important bank consolidation involving the State National and another leading bank is nearing completion and will shortly be announced.

Several banks have been mentioned as the prospective purchaser; the National Bank of Commerce, the Third National, the Mechanics-American National and the Merchants-Laclede being the principals in these, but the story given most credence is that the Boatmen's Bank will be the absorbing institution.

Additional weight is added to the rumors by the abnormal strength displayed by the stock representing the State National on the local exchange the past week, even following the announcement of the death of Mr. Parsons.

For weeks the stock has been offered around $185 and $189 a share, without bidders, but in the past week a steady demand has been prevalent at all times, and sales have been made on an upward scale to an advance of $10 a share, yesterday's quotations showing bidders at $197½ and offerings at $199 and sales today at $188.

Boatmen's Bank has also been conspicuously strong in the recent trading, and following a gradual advance reached the highest point in the company's history yesterday, with bids at $355.50, and no offerings.

Rumor Denied.

J. H. McCluney and Lorraine F. Jones, vice-presidents, say there is no foundation for the rumors.

Asked why the stock has recently been so strong, Mr. Lorraine said that interests friendly to the management had been purchasing the stock as an investment.

Mr. McCluney said he did not know what disposition would be made of Mr. Parsons' valuable collection of curios and paintings. It was stated by a close friend, however, that during his lifetime the financier frequently spoke of leaving his collection to the Crow Museum.

Some friends of Mr. Parsons believe that Washington University will come in for a share of the paintings, while other friends think the city will be the beneficiary.

The will left by Mr. Parsons will be filed for probate within the next few days. It is said that Charles Parsons Pettus, a favorite nephew, will be executor and chief heir to the estate.

SING PRAISES OF SELF-MADE MEN

Business and Professional Leaders Address Y. M. C. A. Club on Work.

Members of the Educational Club of the Y. M. C. A. tendered Dr. A. C. Hurst, the association's new educational instructor, a banquet at Hotel Washington Tuesday night.

Several prominent business men, closely allied with Y. M. C. A. work, were present and addressed the club.

W. W. Berge presided and spoke on "The Self-Made Man of Today Versus the College-Bred Student."

"The men with a practical business experience today is far the better suited for the business world than the fellow who spends years at classics in the college," he said.

F. B. McKeeters, Vice-President of the Y. M. C. A., said in part: "A self-made man is my ideal. A man who has been compelled to make his advancement by applying himself to work is the fellow who is going to succeed.

"Only a few years ago a man came to me applying for work, and for a recommendation handed me two college diplomas. After looking the man over I handed back his sheepskin and told him to go out in the shop, take off his coat and forget he ever had heard of college. A year ago I had occasion to talk with him again, and asked now he was succeeding.

"Why, Mr. McKeeters, said he. 'If I had just known now what I did when I went to school I should give anything.'

"Boys between the ages of 8 and 12, of poor parentage, compelled to work for 50 to $4 a week, are the ones this association appeals to. A boy handicapped in this way can come to our institution and receive night instruction that he could not possibly get even in our public schools."

Prof. J. W. Withers, President of St. Louis Normal School; Prof. J. W. Ferry and Judge Barkley also made talks.

ROGERS MAKES CHARGE; "A LIE," SAYS GOVERNOR

Bitter Debate Between Attorney-General and Executive of Arkansas.

THEY MEET AT OZARK

Davis Attacks Attorney's Record and Latter Questions Motive.

READS ACCUSING LETTER

States Governor Solicited Money From Gamblers for Campaign Use.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OZARK, Ark., Sept. 20.—"I am going to charge Gov. Davis with accepting money from gamblers"—

"It's a lie, a"—

And then the crowd drowned the voices of both speakers for several minutes, and the partisans of each crowded near to the platform ready to take a hand if anything should be started, and for a moment it looked as if there was going to be riot.

But as each speaker kept his place and it was apparent that each would say more without proceeding to physical argument, the uproar subsided.

The first speaker was Attorney-General Rogers and the second, making the strenuous denial, was Jeff Davis, Governor of Arkansas.

"I charge him openly," continued the Attorney-General, when the crowd had subsided, "and if I do not prove my words I will make public apology."

Mr. Rogers here produced a letter from Dave Young, a saloon keeper of Hot Springs, which he read and in which Young declared that Gov. Davis had promised to pardon him of fines amounting to $1600 for political support, but stipulating that Young must keep the matter quiet until after election. Young also charged that he had given up $150 to pay Davis' life insurance, and further charged that Davis had solicited and accepted money from Hot Springs gamblers to make his campaign with.

"It's a lie," roared Davis at this point.

"I never got money from Young in my life.

"Young is a liar and anyone who repeats what he has said is a liar."

"I thought it would pinch his toes to have the truth known," said Rogers.

Here the Governor tried to ask a question and interrupt Rogers' speech, but the crowd was with the Attorney-General, cheered him to the echo and almost hooted the Governor off the stage.

Davis Attacks Rogers.

Gov. Davis was the first speaker at the meeting here today. He attacked Rogers bitterly, but the latter kept cool and had the crowd all with him at the end.

The Governor exhibited a note showing that Gen. Rogers had borrowed $450, and that one of the indorsers was M. D. L. Cook. The Governor endeavored to make much capital out of the note and said he had ordered the note lithographed and would distribute 50,000 copies of it over the State.

"I have no dark chapter in my life such as to force me to threaten to kill a man who tells it," declared Gov. Davis.

"Rogers came to my office and jumped on my private secretary, a cowardly act. He knew that if I had been there I would have whipped him like a dog. I want to tell him that he had better not come to my office. Now I dismiss Mr. Rogers."

The crowd yelled its appreciation when the Governor faced the Attorney-General in a dramatic manner on several occasions.

Rogers Reads Young's Letter.

When the Governor concluded there were calls for Rogers, and he was loudly cheered when he was introduced. Mr. Rogers spoke in a more quiet manner than his opponent, but at times defied him to deny accusations.

Referring to the charges Gov. Davis made against him, Gen. Rogers said: "These charges are false, as false as false can be, and the accuser knows it from the bottom of his heart.

"What does Gov. Davis know about the Penitentiary? He never attends the board meetings. I charge him with violating his oath of office when he fails to attend the meetings. Gen. Rogers repeated his Forrest City explanation of the Cook note. He declared that he had never accepted "a gift or donation to conduct his campaign."

Then he read the letter from Dave Young, which brought the retort from Davis mentioning above and nearly caused a riot.

RECONCILED 16 TIMES.

Wife Says Last Time Husband Slapped Her—and Then—

Mrs. Richard Richards of 3508 North Eleventh street told Judge Pollard in the Dayton Street Police Court Wednesday that Richard Richards had left her 16 times since they were married five years ago, and when he came back to her the 16th time he slapped her and threatened to kill her.

Richards said it wasn't that way at all. He had had nothing to eat for several days because his wife did not prepare his meals and he admitted that he might have said some things to her, but he denied that he struck her. Judge Pollard fined him $25.

CAR DRAGS POLICEMAN.

Sergt. Louis Lang of the North Market Police Station attempted to board a Bellefontaine car at Tenth and Monroe streets Tuesday night and fell. He was dragged several feet, both knees and the right shoulder bruised. Dr. C. E. Bauer treated his injuries.

GIRL WHOM MOTHER WOULD SCARE TO SCHOOL

MINNIE KITCHEN.

MOTHER HAS GIRL TRUANT ARRESTED

"Did It Just to Scare Her," She Says, "and Wants Her Freed."

Now that Mrs. Kitchen of 1026 Dolman street has had her 13-year-old daughter, Minnie, arrested as an incorrigible child, she wishes the matter settled up at once and the girl released. Monday night Policeman Sheehan found the girl at Eighteenth and Austin streets and sent her to the Four Courts.

"I only wanted hte policeman to scare her a bit," said Mrs. Kitchen to a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday. "I thought it was the best way to keep Minnie from playing truant. She isn't a bad girl, but I can't get her to go to school.

"Many times I have told Minnie that I would have the police after her, but I never had the heart to do it. I don't know how I managed to let them take her last night.

"But she had been so disobedient. Instead of going to school yesterday morning she ran off about 11 and didn't come back. Then I got frightened and notified the police. When they found her I thought if she stayed over night in the station house it would do her good.

"Ever since Minnie was a little tot she has had that wild habit of wandering around, so I suppose she can't help it. I felt that it was my duty, however, to break the habit and keep her at school so that she might get an education.

Wants Girl Back.

"Of course the police won't keep her at the station house," exclaimed Mrs. Kitchen. Then choking back a sob she said:

"My little girl will return home this afternoon and I will be so glad to see her, for I have missed her very much, even the short time she has been in that prison. I couldn't help thinking about her and it made me feel terrible."

Minnie, as she sits in the detention room at the Four Courts and gazes out through the barred window, is very sorry that she played truant. Her chin quivers as she talks about it and she is very certain that she will never do so again.

Minnie is 13 and large for her age. She has been attending the Clinton School. Monday the lure of the wild was too strong for her and she did not go to school but spent the day playing with boys and girls around Eighteenth and Austin streets.

Tuesday morning her teacher sent her to the principal. He told her she must bring a note from her mother explaining her absence. Her mother would not give her a note.

Forgot Troubles in Play.

At 11 she slipped away from home and went back to Eighteenth and Austin streets and forgot her sorrows in play.

Now she insists that playing truant was positively the worst thing she ever did.

She is a good girl, she declares, always has been and always will be.

GIRL CAPTURES ARMY DESERTER

Edith King Makes Business Catching Runaway Soldiers and Sailors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Persons on the Battery witnessed the rare sight of a frail young woman handcuffed to a stalwart soldier, whom she was conducting to Governor's Island.

With her and her prisoner was a man with two other soldier captives.

The girl, who wore a sailor hat and a white gown, is Edith King of Philadelphia, a detective, who has captured hundreds of deserters from Uncle Sam's army and navy.

The man by whom Miss King is employed is Charles A. G. Miller, a special detective and agent of the army and navy at Philadelphia. Miller has made a fortune recapturing deserters from among enlisted men. Miss King, who is 25 years old, has been his assistant luring men to arrest.

Miller receives from the Government $50 for every deserted whom he delivers. The girl detective operates all over the country. She is from the South. She took up her peculiar calling about three years ago and has supported her mother from her earnings. She is slender, fair and graceful.

"My home," said she, "is wherever I happen to be. I took up this work because I had a fondness for it. No, I do not make love to men and then arrest them.

"How do I find deserters? That is a secret I shall not tell. I do not want publicity. It spoils my business."

Miss King looks like a guileless country girl.

The prisoner to whom Edith King was handcuffed was Jacob F. Young, formerly of the Fourth Cavalry.

GEORGE E. REMICK

Is the Man of the Hour—His Wonderful Discovery for Consumption the Greatest Boon of the Age.

George E. Remick's remarkable discovery has made it possible to state that consumption is a curable disease, and can be cured in any climate. His discovery has made the most remarkable success of any new discovery in the past decade. When it was announced by the medical press that Remick had discovered nourishing foods that would replenish the wasted elements of the system and had also made a discovery whereby the proper medications are carried to the diseased parts of the tissue and lungs, the profession became interested.

First because of the high standing of Remick as a chemist, they knew anything in materia medica, for which he stood sponsor, must have been proven by the most searching and effective tests.

Second, because from time to time the profession have seen their patients die inch by inch from this terrible affliction, being hopeless in giving anything but temporary relief.

He has been a persistent worker for many years and has spent a small fortune experimenting, testing and perfecting his method of curing consumption.

Mr. Remick speaks of the human body as a storage battery and makes the assertion that no person can expect to enjoy good health without a normal supply of electricity. When asked what length of time would be required to perfect a cure he stated that it was impossible to say as no two patients' condition and complications were alike. Some patients are very susceptible to the treatment, others very slow to respond, but will demonstrate that some cases that have large cavities in the lung can be cured in from 60 to 90 days or about the same length of time that it would require to heal a large wound on an arm or limb that had become badly infected with bacteria.

By special request of prominent physicians he has consented to accept four patients (and make no charges for the treatment) at his sanitarium to be opened on or about October 2, at Lebanon, Ill. He states that the four patients must have their regular physician, have their sputum examined by the City Bacteriologist of St. Louis and his report must show that he has found the tubercular bacilli in numbers. This report, with the report from their regular physician, must be filed at the sanitarium before their application will be considered

BOY BITTEN BY DOG.

Morris Krite, aged 9, of 2204 Chouteau avenue is confined to his home with serious injuries, the result of an attack by a dog at the rear of 2322 Chouteau avenue. The dog was chained, but the boy ventured too near. He was taken to a physician's office, where 10 stitches were used to close the wound.

For the Little Ones

To Keep Their Digestion Perfect Nothing is so Safe and Pleasant as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

Thousands of men and women have found Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the safest and most reliable preparation for any form of indigestion or stomach trouble.

Thousands of people who are not sick, but are well and wish to keep well, take Stuart's Tablets after every meal to insure perfect digestion and avoid trouble.

But it is not generally known that the Tablets are just as good and wholesome for little folks as for their elders.

Little children who are pale, thin and have no appetite, or do not grow or thrive, should use the Tablets after eating and will derive great benefit from them.

Mrs. G. A. Crotsley, 538 Washington St., Hoboken, New Jersey, writes: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets just fill the bill for children as well as for older folks. I've had the best of luck with them. My three-year-old girl takes them as readily as candy. I have only to say 'Tablets' and she drops everything else and runs for them."

A Buffalo mother, a short time ago, who despaired of the life of her babe, was so delighted with the results from giving the child these Tablets that she went before the notary public of Erie Co., N. Y., and made the following affidavit:

Gentlemen: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were recommended to me for my two-months-old baby, which was sick and puny and the doctor said was suffering from indigestion. I took the child to the hospital, but there found no relief. A friend mentioned the Stuart Tablets and I procured a box from my druggist and used only the large sweet lozenges in the box and was delighted to find they were just the thing for my baby. I feel justified in saying that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets saved my child's life.

MRS. W. T. DETHLOFF.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 12th day of April, 1897. HENRY KARIS, Notary Public in and for Erie Co., N.Y.

For babies, no matter how young or delicate, the tablets will accomplish wonders in increasing flesh, appetite and growth. Use only the large sweet tablets in every box. Full-sized boxes are sold by all druggists for 50 cents, and no parent should neglect the use of this safe remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles if the child is ailing in any way regarding its food or assimilation.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been known for years as the best preparation for all stomach troubles whether in adults or infants.

FIANCE IS HELD FOR GIRL'S DEATH

Arthur Shrum Gives Bond to Answer Charges in Ollie King Case.

SCHELL CITY, Mo., Sept. 20.—The finding of the body of Miss Ollie King on the floor of her room, at the home of Mrs. O. Duck, south of this place, Friday morning, has developed into quite a sensational case and led to the arrest of a prominent young farmer, who is now facing the charge of murder.

Miss King was employed at the home of Mrs. Duck, who discovered the body. Miss King was sick Thursday and a physician was called. Thursday evening she retired about 8 o'clock and at 2 the next morning was found dead.

A coroner's inquest was held Friday to determine the cause of her death. A post mortem examination revealed that inflammation was caused by the misuse of some surgical instrument. The instrument was found in her room.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Arthur Shrum, a prominent young farmer of this section, who was engaged to marry the dead girl. When the coroner's inquest was called Shrum disappeared, but was apprehended at Clinton, Mo. He was returned here and released upon a $10,000 bond.

IDENTIFIED ASSAILANT.

John Lerch of 1830 Cass avenue has identified Charles Miller, a prisoner at Four Courts, as the man who entered his shop at 2906 Olive street in April and assaulted him with shears. Miller escaped after a struggle and took $3.90. Miller denies the charge.

Tie a Live Toad to Your Foot to Cure Typhoid Fever.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 20.—The prevalence of typhoid fever here has brought a number of suggestions for cure. A Missouri farmer's remedy is the simplest of the lot.

He says a live toad tied to the foot of a typhoid patient and kept there until the toad is dead will draw all of the fever out of the sufferer's system. The cure, he says has always proved infallible.

HORSE SHOW IS INCORPORATED

Stockholders Meet and Re-Elect Officers and Executive Committee.

The St. Louis Horse Show Society has received from the Secretary of State its pro forma decree of incorporation. By advice of Attorney Guy P. Goltermann a meeting of stockholders was held, followed by a meeting of directors to ratify all the proceedings of the informal organization.

At the stockholders' meeting the Board of Directors was increased from seven to 15, the original seven members being re-elected and eight additional men selected. At the meeting of the new board the former officers were chosen and an executive committee named.

New Officers Elected.

Below is a complete list of officers as they now stand:

STONE, FOLK, AND THE LID SPELL HARMONY

Senator Praises Sunday Closing, Which Is Cheered.

BOUQUETS FOR GOVERNOR

Commended for Taking the Police Force Out of Politics.

BUTLERITES IN FORCE

Thousands Hear Speeches Pleading for "Get Together" Idea.

Did the black cat eat up the dove of peace?

Several hundred Democrats are asking this question. They want to know whether the harmony cocktail, with vaudeville chaser, administered to the party at Suburban Garden amid festivities ending early today, will have to be given again to get the desired result.

The dove of peace was at Suburban Garden by prearrangement. The black cat was there because no one had driven him away, it being notoriously bad luck to interfere with black cats.

When a curtain went up, revealing the speakers, after three vaudeville turns —for there was a big prefatory gulp of vaudeville, as well as a chaser—the dove fluttered and encircled the group of orators. It was the hit of the evening, and convinced the crowd that things would have been done much more artistically at Portsmouth if the St. Louis Democratic Club had had a hand in the proceedings.

Then, as the dove perched on a piece of scenery to listen to Senator Stone's harmony speech, the black cat appeared.

When the Senator began talking of the Sunday lid, which he indorsed, everybody forgot the dove and the cat for a minute. In that minute both disappeared, and the mystery of the dove's fate is still unsolved.

Police Are Scarce.

It may have to stay unsolved, for there was no policeman to whom the matter could be reported. A Democratic meeting, where every third or fourth man does not carry his right hand in the peculiar way which shows the conscious loss of the accustomed nightstick, is a new thing. But the St. Louis Democratic Club which held this meeting, has never sought, its officers say, to win the police away from the Jefferson Club.

Others of the Jefferson Club, including some who pay their dues, were there, and all these got extra attention and were pointed out to visitors.

But those who went expecting to see Harry Hawes and "Col." Ed Butler in the one-act farce comedy, "Retiring From Politics," were disappointed. Neither was there. Nor was Thomas E. Kinney there, nor Thomas E. Mulvihill, though one of the latter's deputies was present.

Neither of "Col." Butler's sons was at the garden, but retainers of the house of Butler were easy to find, and most of them wore the red badges of official distinction.

"Cuddy Mack" was an early arrival. Justice "Jim" Cronin and "Bobby" Carroll came later, as did John R. McCarthy and Harry Walsh. Charles H. Haughton, who used to expound harmony at West End Collseum, was there.

Charles A. Lawler, collector of Jefferson Club dues, who has been threatening to sue delinquents, arrived in time to hear Cronin and Carroll relate that they had received official notice from other officials of the club that suits were unauthorized. They did not have the notices with them.

John J. Lavin and Hugh Brady were Twenty-eighth Ward visitors. Dr. John H. Simon, entering late, brought the biggest crowd of the evening with him.

One man of vaudeville made a hit which made it seem for a time that there would be no time left for more political oratory. He answered recalls until Senator Stone began to think about asking leave to print the speech he had prepared. After he had sung a ballad entitled "She Had a Shape Like an Old Apple Tree," he retreated a little too far from the stage and was forcibly prevented by Frank Herbert, the club's stage manager, from returning.

Stone Spoke an Hour.

Colin M. Selph, president of the club, will have a hard time when he tries to praise another Missouri Democrat. He called Senator Stone a compound of the best qualities of Jefferson and Jackson, and "the greatest Democrat of this commonwealth."

The Stone speech lasted nearly an hour, beginning yith a homily on harmony, and running through state and national issues to the harmony theme at the end.

"All the Democrats in the city," he declared, "cannot belong to the Jefferson Club and other clubs have been and will be formed"—Cheers—and "these clubs must work together."

"The Republicans clamored for a chance at the books of the State. They have had the books nine months and have not found a fault in them.

"The Sunday law is being enforced and that ends it, unless there is to be an effort to repeal the law. And such an effort, I believe, would be overwhelmingly defeated."

This, strange to say, was cheered as heartily as the prediction of new clubs had been.

A series of criticisms of President Roosevelt followed, ending with this:

"What an age is this we live in—what an age of spasm and of sham! But honesty and common sense will conquer oleaginous hypocrisy and false pretense."

There were three vaudeville numbers to come after the speeches, and most of the crowd stayed, not only through Stone's address, but through that of Frank M. Estes, the only other speaker who professed to love the Jefferson Club much, but party harmony more. He yielded the floor at 11:15 p. m. to a black-face comedian.

TWO DEATHS PAY FOR SHOT IN DARK

Man Who Accidentally Shot Aged Friend Worried Himself Ill.

TOOK HIM FOR BURGLAR

Third Suffers in Tragedy, Fiancee Who Is Prostrated.

J. H. Sweeney of 4017 Green Lea place, who accidentally shot his friend, T. C. Savage of the same number, was buried in St. Peter's Cemetery Wednesday.

His death Monday is the closing chapter of a tragedy which brought grief to a neighborhood. It ended a romance and has seriously affected the health of a young woman who was engaged to marry him.

Mr. Sweeney suffered for seven weeks from appendicitis. He had been a patient until a week ago in the Deaconess Hospital.

After an operation he became better and although weakened by an acute attack of hiccoughs which lasted 10 days, he was thought to be out of danger.

News Unnerved Him.

Two weeks ago he was told of the death of his friend, T. C. Savage. Friends believe the news unnerved him and directly contributed to his death.

Sweeney accidentally shot Savage a month ago. He had lived in the household for many years and was regarded as a son.

Aroused in the night by a noise in the kitchen and thinking that burglars were trying to rob the house, Sweeney investigated. He met Savage in the kitchen, which was totally dark. Sweeney called, but apparently his friend did not hear him. Thinking a burglar was in the room and his own life in danger Sweeney fired.

Shot His Friend.

The bullet struck his friend and inflicted a wound that caused his death a few days later.

Savage died at the City Hospital the same day that an operation was performed on Sweeney, in the hope of saving his life.

Savage exonerated Sweeney on his death bed. He said the shooting was a terrible mistake and altogether accidental.

The accident left its mark on Sweeney, who deeply loved his friend, in whose home he had lived for years. He worried himself ill.

Miss Beaulah McAllister of De Soto, Mo., who was affianced to Sweeney, came to St. Louis and visited him at the hospital daily. They had met at the Savage home and were to be married about the time of the accident.

On its account the marriage was postponed until Christmas. Miss McAllister collapsed after his death. She is suffering from nervou prostration and her condition is serious. She is being cared for by Mrs. Savage, who is heartbroken over the whole tragedy.

The funeral services will be held at the home. Rev. Simpson will preach and Mrs. Charles Austin will sing "Face to Face."

The neighbors who knew and loved Sweeney will be mourners and do what they can to comfort the grief-stricken family.

At President Harper's house today it was said that he passed a restful night. His attendants persisted in their reports that he is not in a dangerous condition, but every indication is that the end is near.

TIFFANY'S NEW STORE.

Tiffany & Co., world's famous retail jewelers and diamond and gem merchants of New York City, are now located in their new building, Fifth Avenue at Thirty-Seventh street. They moved from Union Square.

At the beginning of the Twentieth Century, Tiffany & Co. commissioned the architects, Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, to construct them a palace, which for the purpose should be the noblest of its kind. The new building is strictly fire proof, being constructed of marble, iron and terra cotta. It is seven stories high and, crowning Murray Hill, with shining facades of marble, the building is a fine example of the second period of early Venetian architecture.

The interior is believed to be the most beautiful commercial interior in the country. The color scheme of the principal floor has been studied and executed by an artist who has not only produced beautifully harmonizing tones and values in all the effects, but has thoroughly understood the possibilities of the material employed. It is a triumphant proof that an artist's work, even in solving a purely business problem, may be of high artistic excellence.

HANDKERCHIEF TO WEAR, JUDGE RULES

Court Decides Women's Rival Claims to Finery Their Sister Bequeathed.

NOT HOUSE FURNISHING

Both Quote Terms of Will in Support of Their Contentions.

Judge Crews of the Probate Court played Solomon Wednesday in judging between two women who claimed a $25 lace handkerchief belonging to the $46,665 estate of Mrs. Mary E. Brooke, who died in Bordeaux, France, Jan. 4, 1905.

The rival claimants were Mrs. Emeline Hutchinson, wife of James Hutchinson of St. Louis, and Mrs. Louisa Allen, widow of the late Robert Allen of Chicago, sisters of Mrs. Brooke. Each quoted the terms of the will of Mrs. Brooke.

The first clause bequeathed to Mrs. Hutchinson the testator's watch, rings and jewelry and all household articles and furnishings, useful or ornamental. It was argued the handkerchief came under the head of ornamental articles.

To Mrs. Allen of Chicago Mrs. Brooke left all her wearing apparel, and Mrs. Allen said the handkerchief came under this head.

The contentions were laid before the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., executor of the estate. The trust company's attorney appeared and asked Judge Crews to "distribute" the handkerchief.

Judge Crews ruled that handkerchiefs come under the head of wearing apparel and, therefore, this particular handkerchief was the property of Mrs. Allen.

SAYS HIS BROTHER KILLED ITALIAN

Catolito Duco Says Countryman Was Stabbed in Room After Quarrel.

MONEY BELT IS MISSING

Duco Says He Tried to Separate Combatants but Was Too Late.

An inquest into the death of Joseph Ballo, or Guiseppe Ballistrierie, by which name he was also known, who was murdered in his room in the rear of 715 Morgan street, Monday night, is being conducted today by Coroner Baron.

Catolito Duco, one of the prisoners in Carr Street Police Station, who is being held for the murder, stated through an interpreter to Attorney Ambrose J. Riley that his brother, Vinjinzo Duco, committed the murder and that he, Catolito, was an eyewitness. Vinjonzo is still at large, but Capt. Johnson expects to have him a prisoner before long.

Frank Buffa, the other prisoner, still refuses to make any statement.

The $135 found on Catolito Duco is held as evidence by the police. Duco declares it is his money. It is known that Ballo usually carried something like $200 in a money belt on his person. This money is missing.

Although they cannot prove a direct connection, the police still hold to the theory that the failure of the Italian bank on Seventh street a week ago led to the killing of Ballo. It is known that the three men suspected of the murder had deposited funds with the bank, and it has also been learned that Ballo advised several of his friends to leave their funds there.

In his statement to Attorney Riley, Duco claimed that his brother was feeling hilarious Monday night and wanted to remain awake after Ballo had tried to go to sleep, and that a fight ensued which resulted in the fatal stabbing.

Duco accounts for the blood on his hands and trousers by saying that he tried to separate the men while they were fighting.

"THERE'S A REASON"

That's All Right, But What Is It?

A lady teacher in South Dakota says: "I was compelled to give up teaching for nearly 4 years because of what the physicians called "nervous dyspepsia." Nor was I of any use in the household economy. I was in many respects a wreck.

"I had numerous physicians, one after another, and took many different kinds of medicine, but they did me no good.

"Finally, 5 years ago, I began to use Grape-Nuts food. I grew stronger in a very short time on the new diet, and was soon able to resume and am still teaching. I no longer use drugs of any kind, my dyspepsia has disappeared and I am a hearty woman—thanks to Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason. Brain work and worry take strength from the stomach and bowels. They become too weak to handle the fried meat, eggs, bacon, coffee and white bread, so, partly digested they decay and cause all sorts of trouble which will become chronic if continued. Then the nerves and brain grow weary, for they are deprived of the rebuilding elements the food must furnish to replace the soft gray filling of nerve centers and brain which is partly used up each day.

Now comes the mission of Grape-Nuts to supply the "Reason." Made in a peculiar and scientific way of the selected parts of Wheat and Barley this famous food contains natural phosphate of potash with albumen which combines with water in the body and makes that gray matter quickly and surely. Then when nerves and brain feel the power of new made and properly made cells, the strength returns to stomach as well as other parts. "There's a reason." Anyone can prove it.

Milton resides at 1615 North Thirteenth street and sells the Post-Dispatch in the corridor of the "Frisco" Building, Ninth and Olive streets. Two years ago he commenced to sell the Post-Dispatch and has never missed a day since that time. He attended the Webster School and by strict attention to his studies he managed to learn at a rapid rate and will graduate next June and will then attend High School.

Milton earns from his sales of the Post-Dispatch $12 each week, as he disposes of 370 copies each day.

"I started to sell the Post-Dispatch and found it very easy—it sells itself—and have made big money considering that I only devote three hours of my time to it each day. The revenue derived from the sales of the Post-Dispatch has been the means of my being able to gain an education. Hundreds of boys will tell the same story. I received my schooling from money earned by selling the Post-Dispatch."

CITY MIXUP OVER MISPLACED PERIOD

Item in Bid for Settling Basin Work Read $1.95 and .01.95c.

A clerk's error in transcribing one item so that it read both "$1.95" and "one and ninety-five one-hundredths of a cent" was the cause of almost as much trouble as was caused long ago "all for the want of a horseshoe nail."

The error was in the bid of the Heman Construction Co. for building two settling basins at the Chain of Rocks. The total amount of the bid, which had been accepted, was $477,000.

In going over the documents the clerical error in regard to the $1.95, or .01.95c, was found, and Water Commissioner Adkins immediately called the attention of President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements to the discrepancy.

Mr. O'Reilly and Mr. Adkins, as well as the other members of the board, were in the last stages of preparation for their trip to Chicago to inspect the elevated crossings with a view to carrying out long-deferred projects for the same things in St. Louis.

Knocked Out Trip.

But it was agreed that the settling basin bid must be rejected, new bids called for and the whole thing gone over again. So the trip was deferred and a special meeting of the board called for Wednesday.

The board acted upon the recommendations of Mr. Adkins and Mr. O'Reilly, and the preliminaries to the settling basin bids will all be gone over again, at a cost for advertising and clerical work of considerably more than the $1.95 or the .01.95c.

The board will leave for Chicago Wednesday night. It was originally intended that it would also go to Minneapolis to examine the garbage incineration plant there, but a letter received today says the incineration plant burned and that part of the trip is called off.

$195,000,000 CAN BE SAVED IN FUEL THIS WINTER

50,000,000 tons of soft coal and lignite at $3 a ton, costing $150,000,000, and 30,000,000 tons of hard coal at $8 a ton, costing $240,000,000, are used annually for domestic heating. Where ordinary stoves and furnaces are used, ½ this money goes up chimneys in gas and wasted heat.

COLE'S ORIGINAL HOT BLAST STOVE

Saves All Wasted With Other Stoves—Will Cut Your Fuel Bill in Half

Shows Stove Burning SOFT COAL.

For Soft Coal and Lignite

As you know fully one-half the carbon available for heat in soft coal is gas, the entire gas supply used for fuel and illumination in many cities and towns being made from common soft coal. The ordinary stove in burning soft coal allows this gas half of the fuel to pass up the chimney unburned, thus wasting it as a heat producer.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Stove, by means of the patented Hot Blast draft and other patented features, distills this gas from the upper surface of the coal, utilizing it as a heat producer along with the fixed carbon or coke in the coal, thus burning all the coal. This is why

Cole's Original Hot Blast

Saves the Dollars and makes a ton of common $3.00 soft coal or lignite do the work of $9.00 worth of hard coal.

Your old stove and imitation Hot Blasts are not air tight, do not save the escaping gases, and do not give you a warm house at night. You cannot afford to say to yourself "My old stove will have to do this winter." The old stove is eating up the price of a new stove every year. Not only that, but on top of the cost is the unsatisfactory result it gives. It is always out the coldest morning.

Even Heat Day and Night—Fire Never out

Cole's Hot Blast is so perfect in construction that fire keeps all night, and when the draft is opened in the morning will burn two or three hours with the fuel put in the night before. No other stove does this. Fire, therefore, never goes out, and the rooms are kept at an even temperature all the time.

Burns Any Fuel Without Change. Hard Coal Strikes and Soft Coal Combines need have no terror for the users of Cole's Original Hot Blast, as this modern heater burns any fuel. Soft coal, slack, hard coal, crushed coke, Lignite coal, wood or cobs without any change in the stove. The cost of the stove is more than saved in fuel each winter. Read the guarantee.

Would You Lose $50 in Fuel to Save $1 on the Cost of Your Stove?

That is what you do when you buy a cheaply constructed, putty jointed, showy made imitation stove.

Guarantee

1. We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal or slack.

2. We guarantee Cole's Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any baseburner made with same heating surface.

3. We guarantee that the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.

4. We guarantee that the stove will hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention.

5. We guarantee a uniform heat day and night with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.

6. We guarantee every stove to remain absolutely airtight as long as used.

7. We guarantee the feed door to be smoke and dust proof.

The above guarantee is made with the understanding that the stove be operated according to directions, and set up with a good flue.

For Hard Coal and Crushed Coke

The waste of gas in burning hard coal is shown by opening the magazine cover of an ordinary base burner, when the oxygen supplied fills the entire stove with flaming gas. Cole's Hot Blast stove burns this gas in hard coal which, in ordinary stoves, escapes on account of their leaky construction, causing great waste and endangering health and life when it escapes into the rooms.

In the ordinary magazine hard coal stove, three-fourths of the coal is partially consumed in the magazine, where it gives off no heat, as it is not in contact with the radiating surface. The one-fourth of the coal in the fire pot must be kept at a white heat combustion to throw the heat into the rooms, thus causing great waste.

In Cole's Original Hot Blast

The combustion chamber and the magazine are combined and the Combustion is Perfect. The stove is filled to the top of the inside cast iron lining. This large body of hard coal is burned under perfect control by means of the absolutely air-tight construction of the stove giving perfect control over the drafts. The coal is kept at a slow, economical, cherry red combustion and as the heat is in direct contact with every square inch of the sensitive steel radiating surface, all the heat is radiated into the room where it is wanted and not blanketed in and sent up the chimney. Hardcoal at Cherry Red Combustion burns 48 hours, while at white heat it is consumed in from 2 to 5 hours.

Sold Under a Positive Guarantee

We guarantee Cole's Original Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner with the same heating surface. Requires attention only morning and night with hard coal. Warm rooms day and night. No escaping gases so endanger life. The heat wasted up the chimney with other stoves is saved.

Scientific Construction.

Cole's Original Hot Blast has an absolutely air-tight and gas-tight construction throughout, by reason of its numerous patented improvements. The patented Hot Blast draft saves the gas. A patented steel collar connects the elbow draft to the stove body and cannot be made to leak air by action of the fiercest heat. The patented compound hinge on the ash door cannot warp and the door closes air-tight by its own weight. The heavy fire box protects the joints, where other stoves burn out first. The guaranteed smoke-proof feed door prevents smoke, soot or dust from escaping into the room when fuel is put into the stove. Perfect cleanliness, therefore, from soft coal.

Shows Stove Burning HARD COAL

CAUTION—Like all successful inventions, Cole's Original Hot Blast has many inferior imitations, avoid them. They all lack the patented features and careful construction, which make the Original Hot Blast a great success. They do not stay tight and soon open seams and cracks which render them worthless as firekeepers. See the name "Cole's Hot Blast from Chicago" on the feed door. None genuine without it.

If you enjoy the luxury of getting up in warm rooms without kindling new fires; if you would keep your plants from freezing and want to save dollars in fuel you will buy Cole's Original Hot Blast. Investigate today.

The Danger of Raw Milk.

RAW Milk is just as dangerous as Raw Meat! It affords just as fertile a field for microbes—it is just as fertile a source of disease infection.

Mere boiling alone (or cooking) will not destroy all the disease or souring germs.

And milk that has been merely boiled—such as "Condensed" milk—even if sealed in air-tight tins will become rancid, decomposed and look like Axle Grease.

Milk and Cream to be thoroughly sterilized must have special treatment—treatment you can't give it at home for it will be too costly—require too much time.

Milk and Cream to be thoroughly sterilized must be boiled at a high temperature for a long time—must then be cooled quickly in ice—then boiled again—then cooled again—many other sanitary precautions must be taken to insure complete sterilization.

All these processes are undergone by Van Camp's Sterilized Cream. Every microbe is destroyed, every trace of dirt and dust and filth removed.

But the nourishing properties of the Milk (the very finest Holstein product) is sealed in air-tight tins which cost you only 10c.

You see you get better value than ordinary milk—fully 4% Butter-fat in Superfine Milk; 8% Butter-fat in Cereal Cream and 12% Butter-fat in Rich Double-thick Cream out of the same can as you wish, by replacing the water we took out to save freight charges—safer Milk than the ordinary germ-laden dairy milk—at less cost.

Isn't it worth while to try a Tin of Van Camp's Sterilized Cream—it will cost you only 10 cents from your grocer?

Or, if you want to still further reduce the cost, buy a Case of 48 Tins for $4.50 (9 cents a tin.)

To the Public.

It has been brought to our notice that unscrupulous tradesmen, with a view of increasing their revenue, resort to the practice of removing Budweiser labels from empty bottles, affix them to bottles containing cheaper and inferior beers, and then serve same as Budweiser.

This is not only an injustice to the consumer, but is detrimental to our interests, as one is led to believe that BUDWEISER is not up to its usual high quality and standard.

Insist upon every bottle being opened in your presence, as every cork is branded with the word "Budweiser" and every crown cap is provided with our "A and Eagle" trade-mark, and the word "Budweiser".

Des Moines Paper Advocates Secretary's Presidential Ambition.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, Io., Sept. 20.—What leading Iowa politicians are terming the signal gun in behalf of the Leslie M. Shaw presidential candidacy, was sounded here Tuesday afternoon in an editorial in the Daily Capital, Lafe Young's newspaper, calling upon Hawkeye Republicans to forget their factional differences and prepare to rally to the support of the Secretary's higher ambitions.

The Capital warns Gov. Cummins against being misled by injudicious friends into being used as a tool to defeat the aspirations of Secretary Shaw.

TOLEDO HAS TYPHOID.

Part of Water Supply of Ohio City Contains Bacteria.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 20.—Typhoid fever has taken hold of Toledo and a serious epidemic is threatened.

Nearly every case so far reported can be traced directly to the drinking water supply, and many wells have been condemned and more are being put out of use.

Out of 47 samples of water examined recently not one was fit for use. The worst case, however, was that of two city artesian wells. The examination of them was completed today and they were found to contain a large percentage of bacteria.

IN THE BEST OF HEALTH SINCE TAKING PE-RU-NA

Mrs. Lena Smith, N. Cherry street, cor. Line, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"I have had poor health for the past four years, pains in the back and groins, and dull, sick headache, with bearing down pains.

"A friend, who was very enthusiastic about Peruna, insisted that I try it.

"I took it for ten days and was surprised to find that I had so little pain.

"I therefore continued to use it and at the end of two months my pains had totally disappeared.

"I have been in the best of health since and feel ten years younger. I am very grateful to you."

IN POOR HEALTH.
PAINS IN BACK.
SICK HEADACHES.
PE-RU-NA CURED

This is the testimony of Mrs. Smith, of Nashville, and has been the testimony of a multitude of other women.

Pain in the back, sick headaches, bearing down pains, nervousness, palpitation of the heart—all of these and many more symptoms beset women who have systemic catarrh, and especially if they have what is known as "pelvic catarrh."

Catarrh of the internal organs gradually saps away the strength, undermines the vitality and destroys self-control.

This brings about a state of nervousness, the horrors of which can hardly be overdrawn.

Peruna is the remedy.

Thousands of women have found it so. It alleviates immediately and finally cures.

CONTRACTED SEVERE COLD.
SERIOUS RESULTS FOLLOW
PE-RU-NA WAS ADVISED.
CURED IN TWO WEEKS.

Miss Ada Lamma, 5818 Junett street, S. Tacoma, Wash., member Order of Eastern Star, writes:

"About a year ago I contracted a severe cold at a critical period, which caused very serious results.

"I suffered severe pains and sick spells and this continued for several months without relief.

"Finally my mother advised me to take Peruna, as we had used it for colds with good results, and it did not fail me this time.

"After two weeks' use I had very little pain and have now been in the best of health for over eight months, thanks to Peruna."

Miss Gertrude Linford, 221 Niagara street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

"There is not the least doubt that Peruna will do all that you claim for it.

"I was exhausted and lost all ambition to perform my daily duties. I took Peruna for some time and am now entirely well."

MOTHER TO FIGHT TO KEEP CHILD

Assisted by Her Father She Prepares to Resist Husband's Suit.

Suit for possession of William J. Lampert, son of Joseph and Mrs. Clara Lampert, which will be begun before Circuit Judge Hough Sept. 30, will be bitterly contested by Mrs. Lampert and her father, William Henckler, a jeweler of 2237 Chouteau avenue, with whom the boy and his mother now live.

The habeas corpus proceeding brought by the father adds another chapter to Mrs. Lampert's life romance.

Hers was a runaway wedding, and, although she was married in Holy Angel's Parish Church, her parents knew nothing of it until she went to visit them with her husband, the family iceman.

The parents had objected to the wedding because of the disparity of ages. Lampert was turned 20 and their daughter 18 years old.

After a time they went to live with Mrs. Lampert's parents, and the child, William Joseph, born there and named for his grandfather and father, became the idol of the grandparents.

First Quarrel.

Little William Joseph's father often took him walking. The places they visited caused the first serious quarrel between husband and wife.

The breach widened and since June 14 Lampert has lived with a married sister, to whose home he asked if he might take the child. Both his wife and her parents opposed him.

Then came the suit over the child. The father is said to have given as his reason for wanting possession, that the wife was intending to move out of the State, which he denies. William Henckler, her father, is a party to the suit.

"My daughter is a proper person to have charge of her boy. We have means to take care of both him and her and can give the child advantages. I shall resist the proceeding to the limit," Mr. Henckler said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday.

"No court could be so cruel as to take a boy of his age away from his mother," said Mrs. Lampert. "If I were not fit to take care of him, it is strange that my husband did not find it out before. I have lived in this neighborhood all my life and the neighbors know what kind of a woman I am."

PATTERSON GIVES DUNNE SURPRISE

Suspends Chicago Harbor Master Burke on Charges of Gross Neglect of Duty.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Joseph Medill Patterson, the young Commissioner of Public Works, gave the Mayor the surprise of his life when he suspended Col. Richard O'Sullivan Burke from his position of Harbor Master and preferred charges of gross neglect of duty.

Burke and the Mayor have been lifelong friends. It was Burke who introduced the Mayor in politics. The Mayor was not consulted about the suspension.

The action against Col. Burke was taken on the ground that he had neglected to stop the encroachments of the Illinois Steel Co., and that he had wrongfully reported to the Commissioner that the 200 acres of submerged land which the company is said to have filled in between Eighth and Seventh street and the Calumet River was in the possession of the Park Commission by grant from the State.

A value of $2,000,000 had been put upon the land. Patterson has caused a world of trouble to big and little land grafters, who have boldly robbed the city and State. Patterson has called the attention of the State's Attorney to the big steal.

WILL RETIRE SMALLEY.

London Times Dissatisfied With Correspondents' Peace Conference Reports.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—It is understood that George W. Smalley, the American correspondent of the London Times, is to be replaced by Dr. George Ernest Morrison, the famous correspondent of the Times at Pekin.

Dissatisfaction has existed in the Times office, over the handling of the peace negotiations at Portsmouth by Mr. Smalley. Dr. Morrison was assisting Mr. Smalley, and while he furnished him with whatever information he gathered, Mr. Smalley wrote and signed all the dispatches.

Dr. Morrison is said to have known 24 hours in advance of the intention of the Japanese Government to waive all claim for an indemnity, which virtually meant the acceptance of the Russian conditions.

He is said to have received this information by private cable from one of his mysterious sources of information. He notified Mr. Smalley of this, but as he declined to reveal his source of information, Mr. Smalley declined to send it to the Times.

As a result the Times was signally "beaten" not only by the Associated Press but by practically every newspaper in Europe.

GUARD FIGHTS GHOULS.

Foils Attempt to Steal Body of Clem Studebaker at Indianapolis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 20.—An attempt was made Monday night to rob the grave of Clem Studebaker, the wealthy wagonmaker of South Bend, and except for prompt action on the part of the guard it might have been successful.

Thomas Hackney was on guard at the time, and was eating his luncheon, with his back to the grave. Attracted by a rose and after apparently hesitating a men approaching on their hands and knees. He called to them, and both rose an after apparently hesitating a moment, turned away. Hckney fired his revolver, and the two men dodged behind a monument and returned the fire. They then ran, but managed to keep monuments between them and Hackney, who pursued them nearly to the cemetery entrance. There they came to pay and fired so desperately that Hackney did not dare approach.

As the guard retreated the ghouls cleared the fence and jumped into a wagon and drove off rapidly. There were five or six men in the party, and they evidently intended to steal the body and hold it for ransom.

While Athletics Are Drawing Away on Home Grounds It Will Take Life of Comiskey's Men to Break Even on Road.

Athletics' Games for Remainder of Season.

At New York, Sept. 20; at home with Cleveland, Sept. 21, 22 and 23; at home with Detroit, Sept. 25, 26 and 27; at home with Chicago, Sept. 28, 29 and 30; at home with St. Louis, Oct. 2, 3 and 4.

Chicago's Games for Remainder of Season.

At Cleveland, Sept. 20; at New York, Sept. 21, 22 and 23; at Boston, Sept. 25, 26 and 27; at Philadelphia, Sept. 28, 29 and 30; at Washington, Oct. 2, 3 and 4; at St. Louis, Oct. 6, 7 and 8.

It is just possible that the oft maligned Browns, who leave tonight for their last games abroad and who are hopelessly on the bottom rung in the race for the pennant, may decide at the last moment where the bunting will fly.

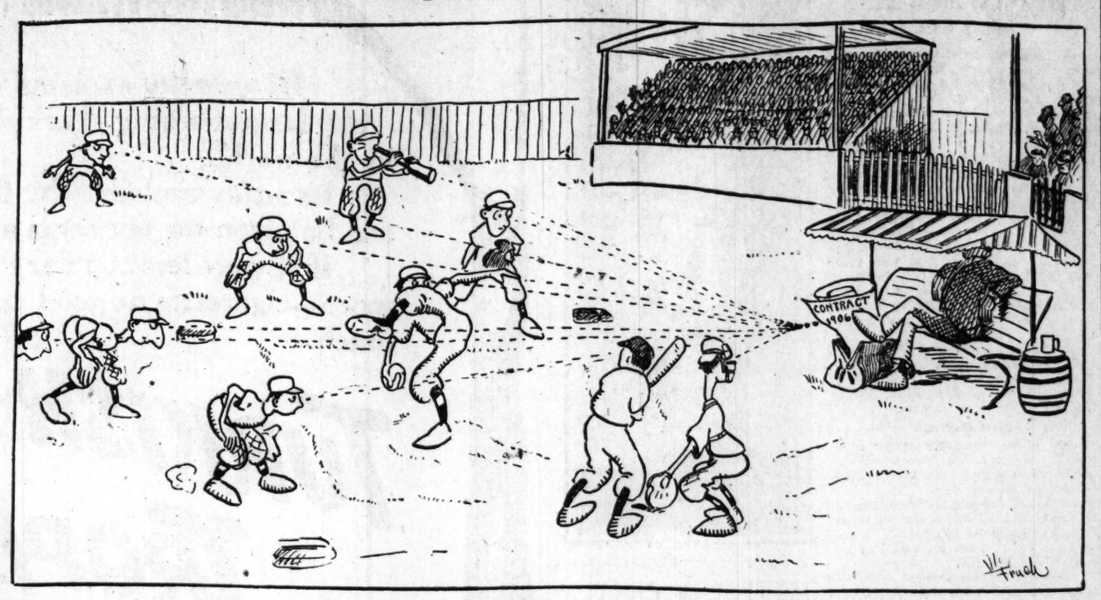

Beginning Friday, Oct. 6, the Browns and the White Sox open a series of five games at Sportsman's Park.

One game will be played on Friday and there will be successive doubleheaders the following Saturday and Sunday. If the race in the Johnson organization narrows down to the terrific stretch drive that was its chief feature last year these last quintet of games may decide which team will stand at the top on the final day of the season.

That there appears to be nothing to the American League race but the Athletics even the most sanguine admirers of the White Sox must admit after a perusal of the schedule of the two teams for the remainder of the season.

While the Athletics are pulling away on their own stamping ground it will take the life of Comiskey's bunch to get an even break on the road. Of course there is many a slip, etc., but this appears to be one of the sure thing tips.

Why Averages Improve at This Time of the Year

SAVE M'GINNITY FOR ATHLETICS?

"Iron Man" Covered Up to Be Surprise in World's Championship Series, Is Word That Comes From New York.

"Muggsy" McGraw, foxy baseball artist that he is, has been both discovered and found out. The story comes from New York straight. Hist! A secret that has been carefully guarded in the camp of John T. Brush.

"Iron Man" Joe McGinnity has been prepared. Aye, even more. False impressions as to his condition have been circulated! He is being saved for the world's championship series.

The story comes straight from New York. Joe is to divide the artillery work against the Athletics, for Athletics it should be, with that king of twirlers, Christy Matthewson.

McGinnity all in? It is to laugh. McGraw has been chuckling in his sleep, but he is not quite so pleased since the secret is out. It has all been arranged.

Matty and Joe.

Matty and Joe are to alternate in the post-season games for the championship of the United States, Canada and Europe, to say nothing of the Philippines and the Island of Zulu. The other pitchers will be mere onlookers unless—we'el—the best laid plans of mice and men, you know, gang aft aglee. Either Matthewson or McGinnity may blow up and Rube Waddell may be knocked out of the box in the first inning.

Who knows? Baseball is as uncertain as horseracing and when that is said all is said. We will wait and see or rather read the results from the bulletin board.

However, there is no gainsaying the facts that Connie Mack's Athletics are adding to their list of friends and that the number predicting that they will next hold the title of world-beaters is increasing.

It will be remembered that the three-time Pittsburg champs of Nick Young's old organization were supposed to be invincible until they ran into the then spry Bostonians.

Giants Should Win.

However, on form, the Giants should win, and win decisively. A comparison of the major portion of the members of the two aggregations is easy for the reason that the majority are veterans and have at different times played in the same organization. New York possesses old and seasoned material that is just as good and as brilliant as any of the old stars of the Athletics and who were just as scintillating when they were all shining lights in the one organization. In addition, McGraw has the better sprinkling of youngsters.

In the pitching department the Gothamites also outshine, although there is little to choose from. Waddell's southside delivery should be solved by that gang of most terrific hitters ever got together in latter days, while Matty should have the same success against the Athletics that has characterized his career against all the teams he has faced.

And then there is McGinnity, who will show his old-time form at the crisis, according to the latest from the seat of war.

HANG HOPE ON POWELL, HOWELL

Browns Depend on These Pitchers in Post-Season Series.

According to the plans of the management of the Browns, Powell and Howell will be called on to do the major portion of the twirling in the post-season championship games between the Browns and Cardinals. It is also the intention to give each of them plenty to do on the present trip East.

Powell is as busy as a beaver trying to gain his best form and he is anxiously awaiting the coming games in New York, when he will face the Highlanders.

President Hedges today stated that the city championship games will be played as far as he is concerned, and that they will be on the days of the contests for the world's championship between the winners of the American and National League pennants.

JOLT'S SAY-SO

The once invincible Terrible Terry McGovern is more lusty than any of the other little fellows in hurling challenges at Battling Nelson. However, it is probable that the Dane's laurels are secure as far as the former featherweight kingpin is concerned. A match between them is improbable, and if it were made it could hardly result in anything but sorry defeat for Sam Harris' former wonder. Notwithstanding McGovern at his best was just the kind of a fighter required to take the measure of the Battler.

Mike (Twin) Sullivan's victory over Joe Gans Saturday night, which was called a draw at the end of 15 rounds, removes every vestige of doubt as to the right of Nelson to the lightweight championship. Exit Joe Gans.

Manager Nolan states that Harry Corbett is holding $1500 of his forfeit money for the Britt-Nelson fight, as an involuntary contribution to the corruption fund for the defeat of the Ralston anti-prizefight bill, that was introduced in the last California Legislature. Corbett admits keeping the $1000, but says Nelson owed it to him, for money loaned. The fighting game on the Western coast is no different from the article that was served St. Louis admirers of the manly art.

And then the recent questionable affair between Mike Schreck and John Wille at Salt Lake City has put a quietus on the sport there. Wille and Gus Ruhlin were scheduled to exchange swats in the Mormon mecca next Tuesday night, but the county authorities have put on the lid. There will be innumerable biff artists spending the winter in idleness if some of the alleged bigger lights do not send come to their senses.

It is announced that Billy Delaney has found a new heavyweight. The individual is Al Kauffman, the young giant of the San Francisco Olympic Club, who is to be graduated from the amateurs. Al is 6 feet and weighs 190 pounds. From his size it would be judged that Delaney did not have to use a microscope to find him.

Frank Frayne, who boxed two weeks with Britt prior to his fight with Nelson, states that he got $20 for his work. Evidently Jimmy thought he was teaching his sparring partner something. Frayne states he received $50 from Frankie Neil for the same work, when the latter's share of the purse was $600.

TENNIS RESULTS.

McKittrick, State Champion, Meets Morrison This Afternoon.

It is expected that single matches in the city championship tennis tournament now in progress on the Triple A courts in Forest Park will be completed up to the semi-finals by Saturday afternoon. Ralph McKittrick, state champion, will play this afternoon against Morrison.

Four good matches were played Tuesday. The feature play was the doubles contest between A. Wear and Gamble and Crunden and Jones. The former won after a struggle, 6-3 and 9-7. Wear played in fine form, though his partner was erratic.

Pierce, Triple A champion, had no difficulty in beating Williams two love sets. Walter Fischel defeated "Bill" Hudson, 6-0 and 6-1. W. R. Hamm won from Anson More, 6-0, 5-7 and 6-3.

USED AUTO AS AMBULANCE.

Dr. Felix Carica of 2926 Gravois avenue used his automobile as an ambulance Tuesday night to carry Andrew Schramm of 113 South Ewing avenue home. Schramm was driving on Pestalozzi street when his horse kicked him, breaking his leg.

ENGLISHMEN MAY SWIM IN RACES

Visiting Football Players Will Be Guests at Championships.

It is not improbable that some of the English football players, who play the All-St. Louis team Saturday, will compete in the Western A. A. U. swimming championships to be held Friday afternoon at Loughlin's Lake in St. Louis County. The Englishmen are expected in the city Wednesday night. Sir Charles Kirkpatrick, captain of the eleven, and his wife have accepted the invitation of the A. A. U. officials to be the guests of honor Friday. The entire visiting team will attend.

Entries for the events have been handed in in promising numbers. Besides a number of unattached swimmers who will compete, the M. A. C., Central Y. M. C. A. and Muegge's Gymnasium will be well represented.

A 50-yard handicap and a plunge for distance have been added to the list of events and entries for these contests will be received as late as 3 o'clock Friday, the time set for the starting of the first race.

Loughlin's Lake is at the junction of Lackland road and the Creve Coeur Lake trolley tracks. It is about 10 minutes' ride from Delmar Garden. Arrangements have been made for cars to run every 15 minutes from Delmar Garden.

Since coming to America the team has won four, lost one and tied one of six games played. It lost to the famous Berlin Rangers, 2 to 1, and tied with the Galt team, 3—3.

Capt. Kavanaugh of the local eleven promises to more than hold his own.

The games will be played as a double attraction with the Boston-Cardinals baseball games, also scheduled for the National League Park Saturday and Sunday.

The entries up to date are as follows:

100-yard championship—M. Schwarz, A. M. Goessling, O. Schwarz, Gwynne Evans.

220-yard championship—M. Schwarz, A. M. Goessling.

880-yard championship—M. Toeppen, A. M. Goessling, J. C. Meyers.

Fancy diving championship—Dr. Sheldon, M. Toeppen, A. M. Goessling, Newcomb.

50-yard handicap—Gwynne Evans, O. Schwarz, Charles Turner, Sam Stein, R. Abekin.

Plunge for distance—Newman Samuels and Newcomb, and Bush, entered from Muegge's institute.

100-yard handicap—Goessling, O. Schwarz, M. Schwarz, Stein, Meyers, Turner, G. Evans.

DOG GUARDED BODY.

Body of Accordion Player Found at Cumberland, Md.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 20.—Jack Adams, aged 49 years, met death here, having been frightfully burned with acid from head to foot. Adams was an accordion player, who gathered in considerable money. All his cash is missing. The condition of his body shows that he was the victim of great cruelty.

His faithful dog stood guard over his unconscious form, and it was with difficulty that the police could drive the animal away.

TWO MEN MISSING.

Robert Wagner of 2236 Montgomery street, has been missing from his home several days.

William Miller, age 28 years, of 2801 South Broadway, former engineer at Marine Hospital, is reported missing. The police have been asked to find both men.

Although the English "socker" team has been in this country less than a month, they have not been lax in familiarizing themselves with our customs regarding the promotion of sporting events. They already have demanded 50 per cent of the gate receipts of the coming local games.

Yale has engaged a professional coach for her hockey team. Wouldn't it require a good-sized camera to take a group picture of an Eastern college's entire corps of athletic advisers?

Mike Schreck, back from Salt Lake City, says he was given a raw deal in his battle with Wille. Mike says nothing of the condition of the portion he and Wille served to the spectators.

Only seven men reported for the first day's practice at the Michigan football camp. With even that small number, we imagine Coach Yost could wreak considerable damage.

DIAMOND CHAT

The Browns left last night for Boston. Besides the Hub, they will play in New York, Washington and Philadelphia, returning to close the season here with five games with the White Sox.

St. Louis will be without League baseball until Friday, when the Cardinals open at National Park with the Beaneaters. Hines and McDougal, two new Cardinal recruits, who are making good, have never been seen here, and there is much curiosity to see them perform.

At Columbus, O., yesterday, the Cardinals beat the winners of the American Association pennant, 3 to 0. Today the Robison crew is playing at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Third Baseman Temple of the Texas League has been awarded to the Cardinals. Several teams, including the Browns, were after him, and he comes well recommended.

Ambrose Puttman, the Cincinnati boy, has rejoined the New York Americans. He won his first game the other day.

Hugh Duffy, manager of the Philadelphias, predicts that if Joe McGinnity holds out the New York Nationals will win the world's championship.

Cincinnati has been tipped off to try Pitcher Bracken of the Jacksonville Club. He is said to be the best twirler in the South Atlantic League.

For a man who is suffering with tuberculosis, as reported, Bill Bradley of the Clevelands is mighty strong with the stick. His hitting is doing much to win an occasional game for the Naps these days.

Catcher Roy Clarke of the Milwaukee team has been indefinitely suspended for failing to pay a fine assessed against him in August. Looks as though President O'Brien was stretching the rules a bit for his home team.

President Taylor of the Boston Americans asserts that Jimmy Collins will have charge of his team again next season, and will continue to play third base. He strenuously denies all stories of friction between him and Collins.

He will speak Thursday night at Clifton Heights Presbyterian Church. Admission is free.

DIXON AGAIN COMES TO LIFE

Colored Fighter Will Meet Tommy Murphy for Six Rounds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—George Dixon, who for 12 years was the best and most consistent fighter the ring has ever known, will meet Tommy Murphy of this city tonight in a six-round bout at Philadelphia.

Many of the sporting men who will go from this city to witness the bout feel that Dixon should not have been matched against such a rugged man at this late day in the career, but the colored boxer is in a bad way financially and he is glad of the chance to earn a few hundred dollars.

There are many, however, who believe that Dixon's cleverness will enable him to win from Murphy in this short distance bout. Murphy is a tough little customer, aggressive and strong. He will carry the fight to Dixon very fast in order to fatten his record with the knockouts.

When the colored fighter was in his prime Murphy would have been an easy proposition for the former featherweight champion, and many of those who journey to the Quaker City will go merely to see how far the once famous little fighting machine has gone back.

AMATEURS

Teams composed of men from the mail and pressrooms of the Post-Dispatch played a game last Sunday, and the former were returned victors in a one-sided game by the score of 13 to 3. A return game will be played next Sunday.

The Clerks defeated the Drummers, both of Anheuser-Busch, last Sunday at League Park. The Klein battery again worked for the losers. The final score was 6 to 5, and a return game will be played next Sunday.

The Fixes defeated the Eberhardts Sunday by the score of 5 to 2. The pitching of Peising and the batting of Kane for the winners was the feature of the game.

The Beavers were defeated by the Marions in a one-sided game Sunday, the final score being 8 to 2. Lauxman of the winners allowed but one hit, and he fanned six men.

The Fultons keep on winning. They defeated the Cuba (Mo.) team Sunday in an exciting 10-inning game by the score of 3 to 2.

The Bucks defeated the Comptons Sunday by the score of 8 to 1 in a one-sided game. Walsh of the winners allowed but one hit, and he also caused 14 men to beat the air in attempts to connect with the ball.

KID FARMER WON.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 20.—In a fight that was fast from start to finish, Kid Farmer of Chicago was given the decision in nine rounds over Eddie Gardner of Ohio at the Riverside Athletic Club last night. Farmer had the best of the fight in eight rounds, although in the fifth Gardner put in some telling blows. The Ohio boy stood an awful amount of punishment and went down for the count of nine five times, but stuck the fight out gamely to the end.

That the Detroit team would lose two games in one day and drop from third to sixth place.

Rhody Wallace made three errors in one game, some of them costly.

Cy Young in the form he has shown all year shut out Washington with two hits.

The signs are that the American League club standing will be the same at the end of the season as at present.

Burkett got one hit out of seven times at bat in the double-header in Washington.

Stone batted .666 in the last clash with the White Sox.

When Wallace hits the ball on the ground some opposing fielder is in danger of losing a limb. Ask Pitcher Owen, whose ankle got in the way of a batted ball Tuesday.

Jack Powell is working like a Trojan and asserts that he will be in his old-time condition before the season closes.

Philadelphia got 11 hits off McGinnity and won 3 to 2.

Eddie Heydon, chief of the Washington battery receivers, at last promises to be a genuine star of the big league. Heydon did not make good with a vengeance in this city, but he has apparently filled out and shows much improvement. While he appeared light a few years ago he now sizes up as one of the big backstops of the major organizations.

In the coming championship series Matthewson has only to fool the Athletics like he deceived Duffy's Phillies yesterday. He let them down with two hits and had them at his mercy.

The Cleveland corpse will not stay buried. Detroit's rush was twice put down hard.

Powell and Howell doing the yeomen's share of the pitching for the Browns in the city championship series look formidable if—the former strikes the form that made him famous.

A HOPELESS FIGHT

It is as impossible to conquer the king of diseases—Contagious Blood Poison—with Mercury and Potash as it would be to conquer the king of the forest in a hand-to-hand encounter, as thousands who have had their health ruined and lives blighted through the use of these minerals will testify. They took the treatment faithfully, only to find when it was left off, the disease returned with more power, combined with the awful effects of these minerals such as mercurial rheumatism, necrosis of the bones, salivation, inflammation of the stomach and bowels, etc. When the virus of Contagious Blood Poison enters the blood it quickly contaminates every drop of that vital fluid, and every muscle, nerve, tissue and bone becomes affected, and soon the foul symptoms of sore mouth and throat, copper-colored blotches, falling hair and eyebrows, swollen glands, sores, etc., make their appearance. Mercury and Potash can only cover up these evidences for awhile; they cannot cure the disease. S. S. S has for many years been recognized as a specific for Contagious Blood Poison—a perfect antidote for the deadly virus that is no far-reaching in its effects on the system. S. S. S. does not hide or mask the disease, but so thoroughly and completely cures it that no signs are ever seen again. S. S. S. while eradicating the poison of the disease will drive out any effects of harmful mineral treatment. A reward of $1,000.00 is offered for proof that S. S. S. contains a mineral ingredient of any kind. Treatise with instructions for home treatment and any advice wished, without charge.

LOST LITTLE GIRL PET OF POLICEMEN

Strange No One Comes to Claim This Stray Girl Baby in Blue.

FOUND CRYING IN DARK

Too Young to Tell Her Name, She Talks of "Mamma" and "Papa."

Somebody's little girl has been playing "at home" at the Carr Street Police Station since Monday night, and the police are unable to understand why no one comes to claim her. Each hour they have vainly expected frantic parents or at least telephone inquiry for a lost child. They have looked through the surrounding district for her parents but without success.

She is a fair-faced little thing of about 2. Her eyes are big and gray and her hair is flaxen. She cannot lisp her own name, her baby vocabulary contains but four words and these are "papa," "mamma," "drink" and "Mamie."

She was found at Morgan and High streets Monday evening by Hazel Loader of 904 High street. Patrolman Grace took her to the police station.

It wasn't home to her that first evening, although she ate the supper that Matron Lina Hammerstein gave her. She cried when she looked about the police station as if the officers were ogres and begged for "mamma" to come.

The sunlight of Tuesday morning turned the ogres into good fairies for the baby and she let them pet her and give her apples. They are her playfellows now and she has ceased to cry.

She likes the mtaron, but a man must wear a blue coat before she will consent to talk to him. Her own little dress is blue. The officers treat her as if she belonged in their own homes and she gives them her childish trust.

Her police station playhouse will be hers for a few days longer, and then if no one comes for her she will be sent to St. Ann's Foundling Home.

Capt. Johnson and his men have become fond of the child and cannot understand the action of her parents.

"MIDDLE FINANCE" CAUSES ARREST

Man Who Served Term Here Held in New York With Partner.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Against Harrison P. McElhiney, who was sentenced to 18 months in prison at St. Louis for illegal use of the mail, and Charles August Seton are several charges that concern "middle finance" as against the high and low dealings of Wall street.

They are under arrest here. Seton, who is 33 years old, has an office in the Wall Street Exchange Building.

McElhiney, when arrested, described himself as a broker.

The pair were arrested on a complaint of John M. Coleman of Houston, Tex., who is counsel for the Houston, Galveston & Interurban Railway Co. Coleman charges that in the summer of 1904 McElhiney wrote to Col. W. B. Slosson of that company and offered to finance the enterprise.

According to the complaint, McElhiney and Seton demanded and received from Slosson $3500 for engraving and printing the stocks and bonds of the Houston, Galveston & Interurban; $3000 more for the fee of the trust company which was to act as trustee of the mortgage for the bond issue, and $300 for general expenses, which sums Mr. Coleman swears were paid. The Equitable Trust Co. was to be trustee of the bonds.

It is now charged that Slosson discovered a few days ago that the stocks and bonds had not been engraved; that the Equitable Trust had not been asked to act and that Seton and McElhiney refused to refund the money intrusted to them.

TO PROMOTE TEMPERANCE

No Lid-Dodging for the Syrian-American Club Organization.

The unexpected has arrived in the form of a club that is being organized—not for the purpose of dodging the lid, but of promoting temperance.

The words are set down in the club's application for a charter. "To promote temperance"—there they are, in black and white. And the incorporators declare there will be no bar and no sale of liquor in the club, on Sunday or any other day

The club's name is "Syrian-American Club." It already has a membership of more than 100, and aside from the promotion of temperance it will promote education, the study of morality and the history of Missouri and the United States, of social economy and the duties of citizenship. A library will be an important feature of the club rooms, at Broadway and Chouteau avenue.

Most of the members are Syrians. J. T. Shwan is President, R. J. Saffa, George Ammad and J. H. Baseel are Vice-Presidents, George McCarry is Secretary, George Solomon is Treasurer and J. Johns is Sergeant-at-Arms, with S. Jebron as his assistant.

The name of the Syrian-American Club was erroneously included in a list of clubs, for which charters had recently been asked, of the class denounced by Judge Sale as having been organized solely as a subterfuge, and to dodge the Sunday saloon closing law.

NOTHING TO LAY IT ON.

POST-DISPATCH'S RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

BULLS CONTROL THE WALL STREET MARKET

Heavy Buying in Reading, Canadian Pacific and Great Northern Causes a General Advance and the Close Is Firm Around the Improved Level.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Trading was active, but price changes small at the opening of the stock market today. Some of the specialties and Reading were decidedly firm. Sentiment is mixed.

London's range of prices was indifferent and trade in Americans at that center is light. Foreign markets are steady and the chances favor an advance in the Bank of England's rate of discount tomorrow, although an issue of Treasury bills may postpone this action for a week.

The National City Bank has engaged $600,000 more gold for import, making $1,000,000 in all by this institution.

News Is Negative.

The domestic news this morning is generally uninteresting. The Western Maryland syndicate has been dissolved, which may or may not be one step in the Gould-Ramsey fight. Financial criticism this morning is of the negative sort, the oracles taking a neutral position, so far as the immediate future of the market is concerned. The chances still seem to favor gold imports of a fairly substantial volume, and the money market continues easier than many had expected. It is possible, however, that higher rates will prevail before the end of the month, altho—h every effort is being made by the leading banking interests to keep interest rates at a reasonably low level over the actual crop-moving period.

Atchison.

Atchison's annual report for the year ending June 30, shows earnings after the preferred dividend requirements of 5 per cent on the common stock. The year's surplus after dividend payments is $552,489, a decrease from the preceding year of $1,780,854. The company's year was a prosperous one, but excessively heavy operating expenses and a loss by floods of $2,000,000, more than offset the benefits of an increased traffic and passenger movement. President Ripley says that the current traffic of the road surpasses expectations and a prosperous year is looked forward to. Eighteen reporting railroads for the second week of September show an average gross earning increase of .37 per cent over the returns of the same period one year ago.

The Late Trading.

Trading was largely confined to special issues in the late session, although the general list held firm around the improved level of the morning. Reading continued the leader of the list and reached 123¼ on enormous dealings. Rumor still connects this property with an important merger of the coal roads, but in well-posted quarters the advance is considered a drive against the old short interest. Canadian Pacific was again taken in hand by the arbitrage houses and run up sharply on the report that favorable developments concerning the property will be announced before the end of the week. Great Northern was conspicuously strong on the report that a good extra dividend will shortly be paid on the issue and that the directors at the coming meeting of the United States Steel Corporation may consider a plan to purchase the large ore holdings of the Great Northern company. Minor profit-taking sales lowered prices slightly at the close, but the stock pressing was well absorbed and the last prices noted were generally higher.

WILL SUE WOMEN, SAY TEAM OWNERS

Association Is Preparing to Make War on Humane Society.

"If Mrs. Mary Calkins and other ladies of the St. Louis Humane Society do not stop interfering with drivers and causing them to be locked up and teams to remain idle, they will be enjoined in the courts and sued for damages by the Team Owners' Association or its members."

John C. O'Brien, Secretary of the Team Owners' Association, thus told Wednesday of the decision reached by the association at its meeting held Tuesday night at 903 North Eleventh street.

The association decided that, while seeking immediate relief in the courts from the crusade led by Mrs. Calkins, they would petition the next Legislature for a law creating regular inspectorships, to be filled by veterinaries and giving amateur inspectors relief from their self-imposed task.

"The team owners have no objection to the examination of horses by any veterinary or by the officers regularly appointed by the Missouri Humane Society and recognized by the Police Department," said Mr. O'Brien. "We would welcome more frequent and thorough inspection by these competent persons.

"But the women who have taken this task on themselves are not qualified to judge of the fitness of a horse to work. This is shown by the fact that so many of their complaints are thrown out of court. Whenever they cause an arrest, however, there is a driver to get out of a police station and the added expense of a half day or more of work lost.

"Mrs. Calkins and her fellow workers hold that a horse with any abrasion on its shoulders or breast should not be worked. We have the expert opinion of veterinarians, upheld by the courts, that it is better to work such horses, when their abrasions have been properly padded, than to let them remain idle.

"In late cases of this sort, brought by these women and which were dismissed, Dr. Hardy and Dr. Farrell made statements which convinced the court that the women knew nothing about judging the fitness of horses for work."

Mrs. Calkins, who has been very active of late in causing the arrest of drivers, is not daunted by the decision of the association to try to legislate her out of her work.

"Education, not legislation, is what the members of the Team Owners' Association need," said Mrs. Calkins to a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday.

"Their statements are nonsensical. I wonder whom the Team Owners' Association would consider capable of judging the capability of the officers to be appointed by the State.

"I have done humane society work for ten years, and I know cruelty when I see it.

"I have just returned from a visit to New York and Chicago. In those cities I did not see one raw shoulder or one blacksnake whip. I did not see one horse cruelly treated, neither did I see a horse doing double work—bearing a man on his back and pulling a load.

"Humane societies have done their work well in those cities.

"So far as St. Louis is concerned there is not a St. Louis police officer or a St. Louis judge in police court who does not recognize our ability to judge when a horse is cruelly treated."

OUT ON BOND, COP WALKS HIS BEAT

Peter Walsh Jr. Not Suspended When Charged With Election Fraud.

Policeman Peter Walsh Jr., against whom an information charging false registration was issued Tuesday, as told in late editions of the Post-Dispatch, has not been suspended from the police force, pending trial.

"I have no official inforation of the case," said Chief Kiely Wednesday. "I have heard that Walsh was charged with the offense, but until I receive the official report and have a chance to learn whether there is anything in it, I shall take no action."

Walsh was arrested by a deputy sheriff and released on $1000 bond signed by his father, Peter Walsh Sr., Democratic City Central Committeeman from the Second Ward. Then he returned to his beat, which is in the Tenth District. He lives at 4633 Kennerly avenue.

It is charged that Walsh registered once from his father's address, 3129 North Twelfth street, in the Second Ward, and from 2341 Madison street, in the Seventeenth Ward, Sept. 19, 1904.

FREEDOM WAS OF SHORT DURATION

After being released in Court of Criminal Correction because of the refusal of witnesses to come to St. Louis from Louisiana, M. J. Menefee, a prisoner for many days on the charge of obtaining money by cashing worthless drafts, was Wednesday morning rearrested on several similar charges.

Menefee was arrested at the Jefferson Hotel some weeks ago on complaint of the Simmons Hardware Co. and the Buck Stove and Range Co., that he had got $100 from each of them by means of drafts on a Louisiana concern which ignored them. Information charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses was issued.

After Judge Moore had dismissed the case Wednesday, Menefee was rearrested on complaints from Chattanooga, New Orleans, Paducah, Ky., and Moberly, Mo.

GRAIN MARKETS CLOSE HIGHER

Strength in the Chicago Market Is Responsible for the Advance.

CORN PRICES ARE FIRM

Domestic and Foreign Demand for This Cereal Continues Large.

Money and muscle were the sustaining influences in the wheat market today, the minor markets of the country being controlled entirely by the manipulation tactics of the Armour interests in the Chicago pit.

Northwestern car lots were slightly below the estimates, although considerably above the receipts of one year ago.

Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago received 798 cars, against 678 cars last year. Local receipts of wheat were lighter, being 1,082,000 bu, against 1,-054,000 bu last year.

The weather was improved throughout the entire grain belt, cool temperatures and clear skies being the general rule.

Foreign markets were steady throughout the day, Liverpool wheat closing ⅛@¼d higher and corn ⅛@¼d up. Paris wheat closed ¼c lower. Berlin closed at $1.11⅛ for September or unchanged from yesterday. Budapest closed ⅝c under yesterday.

Broomhall cabled: Heavy receipts spring wheat in America caused Liverpool to open unchanged. Later, however, prices advanced, owing to the fact that the southern and central parts of France are offering very sparingly. This caused some speculative buying. Corn opened steady, unchanged. Afterward there was a steadiness in January, owing to the bullish tenor of the government report.

The corn market ruled firm, but rather quiet, and the market is evidently in a strong technical position at the present time.

The September deal in Chicago is reported as closed.

The cash business being done for both domestic and foreign account is almost record-breaking at the present time and is largely the supporting influence at the moment.

December wheat closed ⅝c higher on the day, at 82⅝c. May gained ⅛@⅜c, at 85¼c asked. September closed 1⅛c up, at 81⅛c b.

December corn gained ⅛c, at 42⅜c asked, and May closed ⅛c higher, at 42⅜c.

YELLOW FEVER HURTS THEATERS

Companies Now Booked for the South Must Cut Out Those Engagements.

The yellow fever epidemic in New Orleans and other parts of the South is having a serious effect on the theatrical business, in that many theatrical companies, most of which will visit St. Louis, were booked for New Orleans before the seriousness of the fever epidemic was known. Now the theatrical managers are compelled to change their dates in order to avoid the fever districts.

"The County Chairman," playing at the Century Theater, is the first company visiting St. Louis compelled to change its route. "The County Chairman" was to have played New Orleans within two weeks and then proceed to Texas and the Pacific Coast. The New Orleans engagement has been abandoned and the company will be compelled to make up the time in one-night stands.

Many companies eastward bound from the Pacific Coast are scheduled to play New Orleans, but these engagements will all be canceled. One of the stars thus affected is Ethel Barrymore, who is now in California.

Two burlesque shows are laying off in St. Louis this week. They were booked for the South and were unable to fill the time elsewhere.

WAS LAMONT DROWNED?

Missing Man May Have Been in Boat That Capsized.

Was John B. Lamont, 34 years old, of 202 Zepp street drowned by the capsizing of a rowboat at the foot of Stein street on Sunday night?

That is the question given the police to solve by L. J. Ampleman, brother-in-law of Lamont. For several days Lamont has been missing. It is known that he was one of the party of eight that went fishing Sunday. Members of the party fail to remember whether the missing man was in the craft when it capsized.

Fred Barada of 6718 South Broadway, who was in a launch near by when the rowboat left the East Side, says that Lamont was one of the party.

The coolest place in town for good eating, Laughlin Cafe, 7th and Locust streets.

BIGAMY CHARGE DROPPED.

Prosecuting Attorney R. L. Johnston of St. Louis County has filed an official information against John W. Reidy, who was arrested a month ago on a charge of bigamy at the instance of Mrs. Reidy of Chicago. Reidy's other wife still resides in Clayton. The charge of bigamy could not be maintained and a statutory charge was placed against him instead.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN TO WED PITTSBURG MAN.

TO GET CITY MONEY.

Ten Banks Designated as Custodians of Public Funds.

Ten banks which will receive the deposits of the city's funds from Oct. 1, 1905, to Oct. 1, 1906, were announced Tuesday by Comptroller James Y. Player. It is believed that the deposits for the coming year will aggregate $8,000,000.

Each of the ten banks will receive a deposit of $500,000 in the following order: German-American, Lafayette, Franklin, Boatmen's, Mechanics'-American National, Merchants'-Laclede National, State National, Third National, National Bank of Commerce and the Fourth National. The first three banks bid 3 per cent and the others bid 2 per cent.

The remainder of the city's money will be deposited in the various banks in $300,000 lumps.

HOW SIGN CUT OFF WOMAN'S TOES.

JURY SAYS DEATH DUE TO CROWDING

Coroner's Verdict Censures Street Railway and Driver of Wagon.

"John F. Shelby came to his death by accident, dying in an ambulance after being caught between a wagon driven by P. A. Nix and the rear platform of a car, west bound, on the Easton avenue division of the United Railways. The accident was due to the overcrowding of the car and to the driver's failure to have his wagon facing in the direction the car was going."

Such was the verdict of a Coroner's jury Wednesday after an inquiry into the death of John F. Shelby, aged 38, of 1637 Washington avenue.

Shelby was on the rear platform of an Easton avenue car Monday, and when in front of 3847 Easton avenue was struck by the pole of a wagon driven by P. A. Nix of 3729 Cass avenue, which was facing east on the north side of the street.

The accident occurred at 5 p. m., when the westbound cars were so crowded that passengers were clinging to the steps and back dashboard of the car.

Thrown From Car.

Hurled from a street car platform Harry Brown of 1720 Biddle street is the third victim within two days of crowded cars on the United Railways Co.'s lines.

Brown declared Wednesday that the conductor of the west-bound Spring avenue car, from which he was thrown, did not stop the car to pick him up, but sped on. He was left lying on the pavement at Thirteenth and Wash streets with his left thumb dislocated, his right knee bruised and cut and his clothing torn.

Strangers picked Brown up and sent him home. Dr. H. G. Grosby fears internal injuries.

"I got on the car at 6 o'clock last evening to ride home," said Brown Wednesday. "The car was so crowded I could barely get a foothold on the platform.

"As we neared the curve on Wash street the conductor asked for my fare. I reached in my pocket for it and the curve, which the car took at that instant, caught me off my balance. I was pitched off and rolled over and over in the street.

"The passengers called to the conductor to stop, but the car ran ahead. As it disappeared I noticed the number was 2173."

WOMAN'S TOES CUT OFF BY SIGN

Mrs. Wolff Walked Unaided to Doctor's Office, Where She Fainted.

Mrs. Dora Wolff of Maplewood, St. Louis County, was struck by a heavy steel enamel sign which fell from the second floor of the Bell Telephone Building at Tenth and Olive streets. The sign struck Mrs. Wolff on the forehead and fell upon her right foot, cutting off three toes and lacerating a fourth.

Her 15-year-old daughter, Dora, who was walking beside her, escaped injury.

Mrs. Wolff walked to a physician's office, where she fainted. When taken to City Dispensary she was still unconscious, and it was an hour before Dr. Ernst could revive her.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is an unexcelled medicine for children while teething.

VALLEY PARK NOT FLOODED.

Reports of flood damage in the vicinity of Valley Park are said by citizens of that suburb to be greatly exaggerated. Not only has no material damage been done in the town, but it would require at least a 10-foot rise to endanger property or to cause the shut down of the big glass works. Corn crops in the Meramec River lowlands have been greatly damaged, but reports that water had covered some of the streets of the town are erroneous.

KOREANS WELCOME MISS ROOSEVELT

Picturesque Demonstration Is Made at Reception of President's Daughter.

SEOUL, Sept. 20.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, riding in the imperial yellow palanquin, rode from the railway station to the American legation, through streets crowded with white-robed Koreans and lined by the imperial bodyguard.

Miss Roosevelt, Rear Admiral Train, Senator and Mrs. Newland, the Misses Boardman and McMillin and Congressmen Longworth and Gillette, arrived at Chemulpo last evening.

American Minister Morgan and staff and several high Koreans greeted the party, which proceeded to Seoul by a special train.

The Court Chamberlain met the party at a half-way station, on behalf of the Emperor, with inquiries as to Miss Roosevelt's health.

On arrival at Seoul the party was hailed by a Korean band, which played the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Miss Roosevelt and Mrs. Newlands are guests of the American Minister, and the remainder of the party are stopping at the imperial palace.

MACON, MISSOURI.

The undersigned, members of the Board of Visitors of Blees Military Academy, are pleased to commend it. They have personally visited the institution, and remarked its excellent buildings, appointments and apparatus. General Blees seems to have spared no expense in making the establishment complete, if not elaborate, in every way. The institution has a capacity of 110 students, and the appointments are not excelled anywhere in this country by an institution of like character. The location has healthful surroundings. The Academy received last year the highest endorsement of the Assistant Inspector General of the United States Army. Only select boys, of unquestionably good character, are admitted. The school is conducted, not to educate soldiers, but to build up character and give a sound education.

MATINEE MASHERS UNDER POLICE BAN

Broadway Squad Told to Protect Women Who Are Bound for Theaters—Chief Kiely Orders Active Warfare Against All Street Idlers.

The St. Louis matinee girl is, this afternoon, enjoying full police protection from the male flirt or masher.

As she passed along the streets to the downtown theaters in time for the first act, she experienced the unusual sensation of not being stared at by men whose chief occupation was to stand at the edges of the sidewalk and stare.

And as she comes out at the end of the performance she will find a repetition of the same strange experience.

The reason therefor is that valiant body, the Broadway squad. Chief of Police Kiely this morning ordered this squad, through its Sergeant, Con Meehan, to keep the masher away from the matinee girl, and to see that no male flirts were allowed to linger anywhere near any of the theaters, or on their favorite corners, Broadway and Olive street and Broadway and Washington avenue.

"I am heartily in accord with Judge Tracy's war waging on mashers," said Chief Kiely to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Many complaints have been made about this class of people, and I intend to help stamp out the evil.

"I am aware that ladies have great difficulty in running the gauntlet of mashers lining Broadway and Olive street as far west as Tenth, and I have instructed my men to clear the path.

"The matinee mashers are the worst offenders. They are greater than all the other mashers combined. They are as thick in the vicinity of theaters on matinee days as flies. The ladies could not beat them off with clubs, but the Broadway squad can and will do so if the nuisance continues.

"Matinee Masher Must Go."

"The matinee masher must go. He will not be tolerated. I appreciate the fact that ladies no not care to prosecute these offenders because of the notoriety that would follow, but the Broadway squad is equal to the emergency. I have given instructions as to what is to be done in such cases and the masher, although free from prosecution, will fare none the better for his practice.

"I have seen them and I know them. I can tell a masher a mile off. He is invariably a little shrimp, swelled up with conceit. He carries the smile that won't come off. He doesn't dress in the height of fashion, but he thinks he does. He imagines he's the real thing. His hat is usually on the back of his head. Sometimes he sucks a cigarette. He has his trousers rolled up at the bottom whether it's muddy or not. The lower button of his coat is always buttoned.

"The matinee masher thinks he is debonnaire, dashing and devilish, when as a matter of fact he is only a misfit of humanity. He must expect no mercy from the police, nor will he get any."

Police officers will be stationed at the exits of the theaters and will see that no men loiter on the sidewalk without a legitimate excuse.

ALTON BURGLAR IS NEGRO IN PETTICOATS?

INCLUDES AN UMBRELLA

This Carried Rain or Shine Shields Bearer's Face From Passersby.

BURGLARY EVERY NIGHT

In One House Nurse Finds Negro Under Bed in Sickroom.

A negro burglar disguised in petticoats is sought by the Alton police, who believe he committed most of the 20 burglaries in as many nights, most of them in the handsome residence section known as Lower Middle Town.

Woman's garb is believed to have been adopted by the burglar as a means of going about the street at night unsuspected.

Residents of the neighborhood have reported seeing a strange negro woman the past few nights, carrying an umbrella, open, whether raining or not, so as to conceal the owner's face.

The dress, it is believed, is discarded when the negro enters a house.

In the home of George Camp, at 812 Langdon street, Miss Hattie Sherwood, a trained nurse, was caring for Mrs. Camp. As she entered her patient's room early Tuesday morning she stumbled over the feet of the negro, who had tried to crawl under the bed.

Screams Bring Help.

Miss Sherwood screamed and Camp ran into the room and turned up a lamp burning low. The negro picked up a corset cover from the floor and clapped it over the lower part of his face as he ran to a window and jumped through a screen to the yard, 10 feet below.

Patrick McGuire, whose home, near that of Camp, was entered the same night, says that while walking home late at night, he saw the negro woman following him.

Her umbrella was held so as to prevent his seeing more than the calico skirt. He was followed almost to the door of his home.

The next morning he found he had been robbed of $12 and valuable papers.

Members of the family of Nicholas Seibold, at Eighth and Langdon streets, also robbed the same night, believe that chloroform or some other powerful drug was used on them. All awoke Tuesday drowsy and half sick and found $15 had been taken from the house. Notes and mortgages in a box with the money had been ransacked and left in their place.

The negro was seen in two other houses a few nights before, but escaped each time.

PICKPOCKET CAUGHT.

Arrested After Rifling Clothes of Sleeping Man.

Frank Woods, 19 years old, homeless, was arrested Tuesday night while going through the pockets of William P. Austin of 14 North Eleventh street, who was asleep in a doorway on Market, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

On Woods were found a pocketbook with a small amount of money and several lottery tickets and a knife, all being identified by Austin as his.

NO COLD FEET FOR MILLION CLUB

Teichmann Would Have Members Get Together for Real Business.

FRISCO'S GENEROUS OFFER

Courtesy of Road Extended to Committee for Southwest Tour.

"The awarding of the Post-Dispatch prize of $500 to Mr. Lesan for the best suggestion to make St. Louis a city of a million is only the entering wedge of the proposition. The Million Club is going to keep after the matter and not let people get cold feet and take things easy. "We want action and are going to have it," says Otto L. Teichmann, President of the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange and a member of the committee which awarded the prize.

"There is much interest manifested in the matter," continued Mr. Teichmann, "and I am more than pleased with the manner in which the suggestion of Mr. Lesan is being received.

Get Club Together.

"It is my plan to get the Million Club together as soon as possible and get down to real business. I favor the appointment of someone who would go out into the country tributary to St. Louis and start a systematic campaign to accomplish what we want."

That interest is being taken in the project is evidenced by the following letter, which Mr. Teichmann has handed the Post-Dispatch:

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18, 1905.

Mr. Otto L. Teichmann, Cairmah, Sub-Committee of the Executive Committee, The Million Club.

My Dear Sir—I have read with intense interest the plan of Mr. H. E. Lesan for exploiting the resources of this city, with the ultimate view of advancing the population to one million in the shortest possble time.

Mr. Lesan advances one very important point, viz.: it is useless to have a million people in St. Louis without means of self-support, pointing out that the development of the territory tributary to St. Louis must at all times be kept in advance of the population of the city that expects to profit from its development. The Southwestern lines have for a number of years been actively engaged in promoting their territory by judicious advertising and the measure of success attained up to this time may fairly be taken, I think, as an effective indorsement if the plan proposed by the Lesan Co.

Intelligent Exploitation.

I firmly believe there is nothing that will bring a million population to St. Louis quicker than an intelligent and effective exploitation of its territory, as outlined in Mr. Lesan's plan.

As a representative of one of the Southwestern lines, I desire to indorse the plan, and pledge our hearty support.

In this connection, along the lines suggested by Mr. Lesan, "that in advertising, one should be acquainted with the subject or article to be promoted," I desire to extend the courtesy of our entire system lines to a committee of the Million Club to make a comprehensive tour of the Southwest in order that it may be thoroughly equipped to exploit the advantages of the Southwest in connection with those of St. Louis. Yours very truly, A. HILTON, Gen. Passenger Agent, Frisco System.

BOYS TOOK A RIDE.

They Say Older Lad Invited Them to Drive in Park.

Edgar Washington, colored, aged 7, of 1316 Chestnut street, and Walter Swaggins, colored, aged 6, of 108 North Thirteenth street, were arrested Tuesday night by Policemen Walton and Walsh near the Cottage, in Forest Park.

They were enjoying a ride in a buggy taken from in front of 1107 North Grand avenue, claimed by William Druhe of 4177 Page boulevard. A 15-year-old colored boy, whose name they said was Albert, jumped from the buggy and escaped as the policemen appeared.

The children said that Albert had invited them to ride. They were released. The police are looking for Albert.

NEIGHBORLY QUARREL.

John J. Bray of 204 and Thomas Smith of 202 South Twelfth street quarreled in the rear of their hoes Tuesday afternoon over an alleged insulting remark concerning Smith's wife said to have been made by Bray, and Smith struck Bray on the head with a revolver. Smith was arrested.

PRIZED RING GIVES CLEW TO MISSING MAN

Friends and Relatives of Floyd Dinkgrave Puzzled by Disappearance.

SAID HE WOULD END LIFE

Entire Credence Is Not Placed in Letters Threatening Suicide.

DID HE WEAR BLACK HAT?

Girl Friend Says He Did—Hat Found on Bridge Was Pearl Color.

Miss Beulah Hanan of 4741 Page boulevard, the last acquaintance who is known to have seen S. Floyd Dinkgrave between the hours that he left the house of a friend and the finding of his clothes on the Eads Bridge, adds to the mystery of the young man's disappearance by stating:

"I am sure that when I met and talked with Floyd on Olive street Monday afternoon, he wore a soft black hat."

The hat turned over to the police, together with the clothing which contained many letters of identification, was of pearl gray color.

Miss Hanan continues: "During our chat of a few minutes, Floyd appeared to be in the best of humor and gave no indication that he was in anything but the happiest frame of mind. Our conversation was mostly 'small talk,' and he seemed to take it up with his usual zest."

Mrs. James Miller, 3930 Washington boulevard, sister of the missing man, said:

"There seemed to be an unsatisfied something in Floyd's nature that I could never understand. What it was, I don't know, but I feel that it was responsible for his death."

Theodore Dinkgrave, brother of the missing man, arrived Wednesday to assist in the search for him, in response to a telegram from Mrs. Miller, and is at her home. Mr. Miller has also returned from a business trip and is assisting in the search for the missing man.

Looking for His Body.

Mrs. Miller and her uncle, R. C. Dinkgrave, of 4472 Evans avenue, are firmly convinced that young Dinkgrave has destroyed himself. They have spent the past 24 hours hunting for his body along the Mississippi water front.

Their belief is that Dinkgrave is dead is strengthened by the receipt of three letters from him, mailed Monday night, several hours before the clothes were found, in which he tells his sister and two chums that he intended to make way with himself. The letter to Mrs. Miller was most cold-blooded, she says, and enclosed his trunk keys and a small amount of money.

Other acquaintances of Dinkgrave, who boarded at 3932 West Pine boulevard, are loath to believe that the young man killed himself. So far as they are aware he was surrounded with conditions that should have made him happy and contented. Neither women, cards, nor debts figure as a possible source of annoyance. He had a good position, a salary that supplied his modest wants, many congenial friends, relatives to whom he was attached, and many opportunities to indulge his musical tastes.

They base their belief that Dinkgrave has committed a prank and disappeared to start life elsewhere on the fact that a valuable ring which he wore was not returned to the sister along with other articles.

Kept Ring He Prized.

This ring was a family heirloom. It was antique in design and pressure upon a secret spring revealed a setting in which was placed a miniature of a great-grandmother. Dinkgrave, who was from the South, was greatly impressed with the history of the ring, and it is not believed by his friends that he would destroy it along with himself.

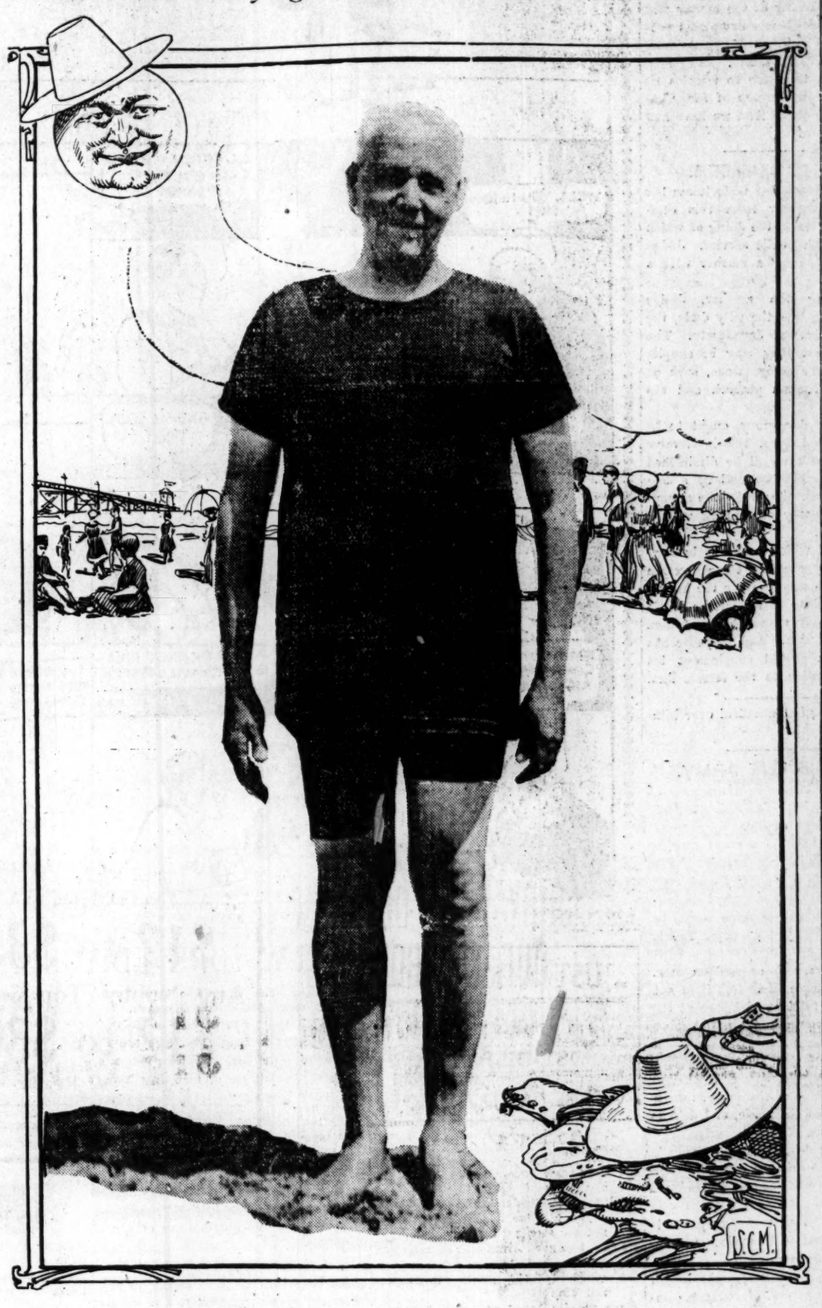

Dinkgrave's roommate, A. L. Martin, who was also employed at the St. Louis Dressed Beef Co., is equally at a loss to accept either theory. Martin received one of the three letters which Dinkgrave mailed before his disappearance in which the missing man announced his determination to commit suicide. Among other things the letter says:

"I have tried this side and shall now see what is on the other. It is no use. I have nothing to live for."

The third letter was received by Frank Dicks of 3600 Goodfellow avenue. The letter contributes a clew to the theory of disappearance by stating that when Dinkgrave left his home Sunday night, after the card game, he had about $30 in his pocket. The game had been for trifling stakes and all members of both families knew that the boys played together. About $3 was sent to his sister.

A reward has been offered for the recovery of the body or information concerning Dinkgrave if he is still alive. He is described as being 5 feet 10 inches in height, of medium build, brown curly hair, florid complexion, blue-gray eyes and a prominent jaw. He was 22 years old.

"Uncle Henry" Ziegenhein, Photographed at Atlantic City Where He Is Trying to Break the Season's Bathing Record

"UNCLE HENRY" IS AT THE SEASHORE

One-Time "Moon-Yet" Mayor Is at Atlantic City, Breaking Hearts and Seeking Bathing Record— His Raiment Is Splendid.

Come, listen to my story;
Come, listen, kinder mein.
For 'tis a story, short and true,
Of Henry Ziegenhein.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 19.—Henry Ziegenhein—"Uncle Henry"—the one-time "moon yet" Mayor of St. Louis, is no satellite here at Atlantic City, where he has been since Aug. 19; rather he is a whole solar system in himself, around whom are revolving a large number of fair Venuses and other female planets, each and every one hoping and striving to ensnare the heart of St. Louis' former burgomaster.

For "Uncle Henry," be it known, is a widower, and has money to toss at the merry songsters in the wildwood—a fact which the said Venuses, by some strange sort of divination, seemed to grasp the very moment he implanted his name in large, carefully-constructed Teutonic characters on the register at the Piedmont Hotel.

"Uncle Henry's" ambition this year is to attain the reputation of "the most-bathed man at Atlantic City."

He had the same ambition last season, but a rude, coarse person from Chicago beat him to it by four baths.

Took 97 Baths.

"Uncle Henry" went in swimming 97 times; this rude stockyards person hit the waves 101 times by the watch, and "Uncle Henry" was forced down and out and had to take the count.

This season he showed up at the hottest time of all, right in the heart of August, bringing along his son, Eugene, who conducts the big Ziegenhein business in East St. Louis, to keep count.

Just as soon as his feet hit New Jersey grit he made a run for a bathing suit, and into the water he plunged. Every day since then, rain or shine, hot or cold, bleak or sunshine, he has been in the water at least once a day, and sometimes twice.

His record up to date is 83 baths in 41 days.

Sartorially Perfect.

Every day since his arrival "Uncle Henry" has nervously scanned the hotel registers looking for the name of the rude Illinois person who beat him to the most-washed record last year, but so far there has been no sign of him, and it certainly looks now as though "Uncle Henry" will be able to get away with it this season.

There is no better groomed man at this great resort than Henry Ziegenhein. His clothes are new; his trousers are always freshly creased; his hat—that weird, wonderful and inexplicable Ziegenhein hat—is new; he is always, apparently, fresh-shaven; his weight is just what it should be for a man six feet three; he looks like a man who is constantly in care of a valet.

In fact, "Uncle Henry" is quite "it," and when he takes a turn down the famous board walk they are few indeed who do not turn to rubber at the once celebrated burgomaster of St. Louis.

It will be a mighy happy widow who lands the big "moon-yet" Mayor; yes, a verry happy one, indeed, for up to date "Uncle Henry" has displayed not the slightest sign of yielding to the blandishments of any member of the crafty sonosis who frequent this great watering place.

DEFENDS HIS DOG.

Capt. Brolaski Says Canine Is Toothless and Not Vicious.

"That dog is not vicious," said Capt. Harry Brolaski of 3816 Bartmer avenue to Judge Pollard in Dayton Street Police Court, Wednesday. "His teeth are all gone and he can't even eat dog biscuit, let alone chew meat from bones."

Little Matthew Burke Jr., aged 8, of 5877 Bartmer avenue told how the dog, a full-blooded collie, had bitten him on the right leg, Sept. 4.

Judge Pollard laid the case over to let Mathew Burke Sr. get witnesses to prove the dog had bitten others beside his son, as the courts have held that one bite does not make a dog vicious.

"SHORT WEIGHER" FINED.

Delivery of Load of Coal, Shy Ten Bushels, Cost Driver $250.

William King, driver for the Eisenmayer Coal Co. at 623 South Fourth street, was fined $250 by Police Judge Tracy Wednesday on the charge of giving short weight. King was arrested by Officer Gallagher and Inspector Johnson of the Correct Weight Coal Association Sept. 8. In a load of coal delivered to Lizzie Herald, 2902 Montgomery street, it was alleged that King was 10 bushels short.

REYES DICTATOR; MOB FIRED UPON?

Revolution in Colombia Said to Have Followed President's Declaration.

PANAMA, Sept. 20.—Reports have reached here that Gen. Rafael Reyes, President of Colombia, declared himself dictator on Sept. 18 and imprisoned the members of the Supreme Court of Bogota.

The reports are unconfirmed, but they state mobs, angered by Reyes' action, attacked the presidential palace and were fired upon by the troops, who killed or wounded many of the rioters.

It is also reported that revolutions have been started in Antioquia and Santander.

MINISTER MENDOZA DOUBTS REPORT IS TRUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Diego Mendoza, Colombian minister to Washington, who is in this city, was shown the Panama dispatch. He said:

"I received a cable dispatch from Bogota two days ago, and it said that the country was in complete and absolute peace, and that President Reyes was engaged in the reconstruction of the Colombian finances. If anything of importance occurred I would surely have been informed of it. I am sure there is no disturbance in Colombia."

FOUND OLD MAN DEAD.

Boy on First Visit Saw Old Negro Staggering.

At daybreak Wednesday Charles Sutter, aged 13, of 1117 North Twenty-first street, went to the rear of 2216 Franklin avenue to awaken Henry Perkins, an old negro employe, with young Sutter at the Anchor Feed Co.'s store at Twenty-second and Morgan streets.

After repeated knocking the old negro opened the door and took some cheese from the boy, who noticed that Perkins almost fell as he went back into his room. Later Sutter returned and the old negro was found dead on the floor of his room. It is supposed that he was taken ill during the night. An autopsy will be held to determine the cause of death.

FUTURE OF ST. LOUIS TALKED AT BANQUET OF MANUFACTURERS

Million Club Told That There Is Important Work to Be Done—Free Bridge and Arbitrary Discussed—Interstate Commerce Commission Discussed—Officers Elected.

The early part of the annual meeting of the St. Louis Manufacturers Association Tuesday evening at the Planters' Hotel, which was likewise the annual banquet of the organization, was rather a solemn affair. But when the coffee had been served and the cigars were lighted and the speeches began there was a pricking up of ears and a shifting of chairs to get in position to hear what would be said which made up for the earlier quietude, for the Manufacturers Association is a body where sometimes some of the members say some things which do not always accord with the views of all of the rest of the members.

While the dinner was being served the makers of dry plates, personified by manufacturers of photographic material, talked gravely on trade topics with the purveyors to dry palates, represented by brewers who are members of the association. The law, in the person of Excise Commissioner Mulvihill, showed its sincerity by turning down its glass when the appetizer was passed.

First on the program after dinner was President Kingsland, who read his annual report. He called attention to the part which the association had taken in the entertainment of World's Fair visitors, and told of the permanent benefits which had come from the exposition. He urged on the association that it interest itself further in the Million Club project and told them of his firm belief of how much good might be accomplished by active work in that line.

Mr. Kingsland referred to the reduction in water rates which had resulted through the efforts of the association whereby the manufacturers of St. Louis had saved more than $300,000 in the past year as a result of combined effort to accomplish a desired purpose. The Water Department came in for a commendatory puff for clarifying the water. Mr. Kingsland stating that the present quality is of vast benefit to manufacturers.

Bond Issue and Bridge.

The report touched on the defeated $9,000,000 bond issue and said that it seemed as though the principal reason for its defeat was because there was no specific provision of a portion of the funds to be used for a free bridge and because the mass of the people were of the impression that too large a proportion of the bonds was to be used for the improvement of one particular highway of the city.

The matter of a free bridge and the existing bridge arbitrary came in for considerable comment in the report and the press of St. Louis was complimented for the position taken in favoring legislation which would remedy existing evils.

Rudolph Laughlin, who attended the national conference on reciprocity, gave a detailed account of his efforts along that line, but pointed out that this nation would suffer greatly if it carried the reciprocity idea so far that it would interfere with our domestic trade.

"If our manufacturers are looking for real reciprocity," said Mr. Laughlin, "they must be prepared to stand for a reduction in price, which will amount to 20 per cent."

Commission Lacks Power.

Mr. Hanson followed, speaking on the topic of interstate commerce. He pointed out that the present commission has been largely a gatherer of statistics rather than enforcer of laws because of lack of the power to carry out its decisions. He told of the large expense it has been to the people, and called attention to the many loopholes through which offenders had crawled out when they were in trouble.

He argued that while the railroads themselves were better qualified to make rates than any commission could be, still some laws were needed whereby there might not be the discriminations showed at present.

Anthony Ittner, president of the A. Ittner Brick Co., was scheduled to speak on St. Louis manufactures, but he devoted nearly all of the time allotted him to caustic remarks on present labor conditions. He stated that at present there is really no chance for a young man to learn any of the building trades. Trade schools, he held, are necessary for the education of the growing generation under the limited apprenticeship rules of the labor unions today.

Favors Trade Schools.

"I would not be surprised at all if we had to fight a second battle for independence," said Mr. Ittner, "if labor conditions are not changed. I have been fighting for trade schools for years, and I will keep up my fight for the right of an American citizen to learn a trade as long as I live."

Mr. Arbuckle of the Latin-American Club spoke of the increase in the exports of St. Louis and was optimistic in his predictions for the future.

Prof. WJ McGee, director of the St. Louis Public Museum, bronzed from his months spent in the desert, living the simple life and resplendent in conventional evening attire, told how he had started as a farmer and developed into a scientist by a circuitious route, eulogized Thomas Jefferson and then told the diners how much good they could do by giving more attention to building up the new museum.

New Officers Elected.

Mr. Kingsland was re-elected President of the association by acclamation and in his speech of acceptance took occasion to make many complimentary remarks concerning the new secretary of the association, Eugene Smith, and made promises for the new incumbent which will, if carried out, make Mr. Smith one of the busiest men in St. Louis.

The following is a list of the newly elected officers:

President, L. D. Kingsland; First Vice-President, J. A. J. Shults; Second Vice-President, W. F. Nolker; Third Vice-President, M. R. Richmond; Fourth Vice-President, P. M. Hanson; Fifth Vice-President, A. D. Brown; Treasurer, E. Argo; Secretary, Eugene Smith. Executive Council—A. H. Duncan, H. W. Peters, Anthony Ittner, C. A. Ekstromer, W. B. Becktold, W. J. McBride, R. E. Gardner.

SAYS ROOSEVELT'S ANTI-RACE SUICIDE POLICY IS WRONG

Secretary, Mrs. Lippencott, of Pittsburg Society for Improvement of Poor, Proposes to Take President to Task Because Birth Rate Among Poor People Is Increasing.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 20.—Mrs E. S. Lippencott, secretary of the Society for the Improvement of the Poor in this city, has decided to write letters to protest not only to President Theodore Roosevelt, but Mrs. Roosevelt as well, against the President's policy on race suicide.

"My mind has been fully made up for several days past," said Mrs. Lippencott, "and the letters which I shall write to the President and his wife urge them both to put a stop to the words and acts of encouragement for the rearing of large families.

"We find that within the past two years or more the number of births among the poor have been materially increased.

"I had a case called to my attention this day. The poor woman came to my office and asked to see me. She was dressed in the most shabby garments and looked as though she had not had a meal for a week.

"Clinging to her tattered skirts were four children, while in her arms were two others. And yet this poor creature had come to find out if the President would not do something for her.

"She told me that she was the mother of 17 children. Most of them are still too young to be of any assistance to her in earning a livelihood.

"A short time ago her husband died and left her with all these children on her hands. Yet she seemed to be proud of them and thought that she was deserving of a medal or some other token of appreciation from the President.

"I quite agree with the President and his wife that the American men and women who can afford to rear and educate families should do so, but I do not think that the Roosevelts intend that large families should be reared by those who are too poor to feed, clothe and educate them.

"In my letter I shall appeal to them to make themselves clear on this subject. If they could see the suffering that we see I am sure that they would not be in favor of bringing so many children into the world."

Social at Inaugural Reception in New Home.

A "shower social" will serve as the inaugural reception of the Woman's Caristian Temperance Union in the new home at 25 North Spring avenue Friday afternoon. Several gifts have already been "showered" upon the home and the members hope that one of Friday's raindrops will be an upright piano, even if that particular drop is only a loan. The public is invited to visit the headquarters and attend the reception.

SINGING WAS "BUM."

Policeman Stopped Warbler, Got a Beating, but Other Got a Fine.

"And the singin' was so bum, your honor, that I thought it was disturbing the peace," was the explanation that Policeman Baldwin gave Judge Tracy in City Hall Police Court for the arrest of Maxime Lieber of 4245 West Belle place. Lieber was charged with being drunk and boisterous at Locust and Jefferson Tuesday night.

Lieber is 6 feet 2 inches tall, and broad accordingly. As he stood on the corner singing he resented Baldwin's interruption. According to the officer, Lieber knocked him about in a very pugilistic manner. This was not contradicted by Lieber, who frankly admitted that he was drunk enough to do anything. Judge Tracy fined him $10.

BIGGEST WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

The only St. Louis Newspaper with the Associated Press day dispatches.

Sir Thomas Lipton seems a better sailor than horseman.

No nation needs prosperity so much as the United States. No other is so wasteful.

Will the moon be shining bright upon the Wabash when the Ramsey-Gould scrapping is over?

The new Circuit Attorney may have better luck with the tax dodgers than he had with the boodlers.

Surely there is peace and contentment in the Philippines when we have to keep an army of 18,375 men in those lovely islands.

INCREASING ST. LOUIS TRAFFIC.

Nothing could be more significant of extraordinary growth in the trade of St. Louis than the facts of the increase of traffic handled by the Terminal Railroad Association this year over that of the World's Fair year. President McChesney of the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association says that the excess of St. Louis freight for August of this year over August of last year amounts to 1000 cars. Expressed in tons this means an increase for one month of 25,000. The increase has been notable since June.

But this statement does not cover the entire increase. Secretary Morgan's reports from the St. Louis railroads for the first six months of the year, to July 1, show an increase of 340,358 tons, or an average increase per month of 56,000. The amount of freight handled by the railroads for the Exposition reached 302,240 tons, so that on a fair estimate the increase of the first six months over the normal traffic of the same period last year is about 550,000 tons.

This increase would be extraordinary under any circumstances, but considering the fact that St. Louis has just been relieved of the burden of a vast Exposition, which, it was freely predicted, would stagger and set back the city, the condition suggests a marvel. It proves conclusively that St. Louis came out of the Exposition period of stress stronger than ever and by wisdom and energy turned what has proved a handicap to other cities into an advantage. The facts spell prosperity and growth for St. Louis.

But rapidly increasing business suggests at once the need of ample terminal facilities and of convenient terminal conditions for the handling of the traffic. There was a congestion of freight during the rush period of the Exposition. It was aggravated, to be sure, by the flood, but it was caused primarily by the lack of terminal and bridge facilities. Another and a continued congestion will certainly follow a continued increase of traffic.

St. Louis needs West Side delivery, West Side freight yards and depots for the handling of St. Louis traffic. It needs more bridges and largely increased terminal facilities. The Mississippi must be eliminated as an obstacle to transportation and trade.

This work was the task which the Terminal Commission was designed to undertake. If it does not do the work another organization must do it. The Million Club could not find a better occupation than that of using the combined influence and energies of all the business organizations it represents for the widening of the gates to the East and the removal of the tolls on commerce.

The advertising of the city which is now, through the population prize of the Post-Dispatch, arousing great interest, should be accompanied by the removal of obstacles to the increase of business.

Following close upon the Virginia ruling that $20 is the proper penalty for stealing a kiss comes a Missouri decision by which $300 is named as the correct figure. Such a diversity of judgments in different states is apt to create a demand that the whole subject be placed under Federal control.

RUM AND READING MATTER.

The Supreme Court of Missouri, which has cracked many a hard nut in its time, will have another on its hands when it is called upon—as it now seems it will be—to decide what connection there is between education and a club bar.

Since the lid was clamped on St. Louis there have been 25 applications to the Circuit Court for pro forma decrees of incorporation for social clubs "for educational purposes," and many such decrees have been sought in St. Louis County. In each of these applications, it is observed, the privilege to sell liquor to members is sought; and clubs are allowed to sell liquor to bona fine members on Sunday, lid or no lid.

Judge McElhinney of the St. Louis County Circuit Court, who seems to have some doubts about the affinity between liquor and learning, has appointed a lawyer to investigate the character of the "educational" facilities which one of these clubs which has applied for incorporation papers proposes to furnish its members, and it now seems more than likely that the Supreme Court will be called upon to interpret the meaning it once placed upon the word "educational" in connection with clubs, and to say whether liquor and literature, beer and books, rum and reading matter, are correlative, or even akin.

A Missouri court would be the last on earth to put the lid on learning, but if it requires too great a stretch of the imagination to establish the connection between information and intoxication, like the country constable, it will not hesitate to "do its dooty."

The prosperity of the United States during the last decade is shown by the counting of the money and securities in the treasury, which was completed yesterday. As of July 1, 1897, D. N. Morgan transferred to Ellis P. Roberts $796,925,339.17. As of July 1, 1905, Treasurer Roberts transfers to Charles H. Treat $1,259,598,278.58 2-3, an increase of $462,672,839.41, or more than 50 per cent. And we have had a current deficit recently, too!

ELIMINATING THE MASHER.

Judge Daniel O'Connell Tracy has undertaken the task of eliminating the masher from this community. It is an honorable task, the doing of which would be recorded as a high public service. Judge Tracy begins well by "smashing" a masher with a well-directed fine of $300.

Analyzing and classifying the masher, Judge Tracy finds three distinct types—the silly dude, the conceited wretch and the moral degenerate. The classifications will serve, but they may be supplemented with natural history designations, such as the annoying insect, the human peacock and the beast of prey.

The beast of prey, being dangerous, ought to be confined in stone walls and bars, the intolerable vanity of the human peacock would be diminished by the lightening of his pocketbook and by a season of hard work on the rock pile, while the annoying insect may be blown away or crushed with a tap of a stick or umbrella.

All classes are nuisances which ought to be suppressed. Judge Tracy's campaign for the protection of women from insult and annoyance has the hearty support of all men and women of wholesome minds and morals. The community stands back of him. More power to his judicial arm. And when he has eliminated the masher he should supplement his good work with an admonition to the female flirt.

The President is anything but mirthful over Minister Merry.

EXTRAVAGANCE IN THE ARMY.

Gen. Corbin's moral essay on the extravagances of young army officers is edifying to the civilian, but not very helpful to the young officer.

The essay was brought out by the great number of courtmartials for financial irregularities. "The moment an officer begins living beyond his means," says the General, "he should be subjected to discipline. Young officers joining the service should be admonished that for them only the simple life is possible."

This is good if all officers, rich as well as poor, be compelled to live the simple life. But it is not so meant. The rich man sets the social pace at the barracks. The poor man can adopt Gen. Corbin's rule and live without society. He and his wife, if he is married. Or he can go in debt and saddle himself with responsibilities he can never discharge. In either case he must get out of the army, for social life is necessary there as elsewhere, and debt is a trouble maker in all places.

The mischief Gen. Corbin deplores in the army is the same that prevails in the great universities. The rich man sets the pace. The poor man is discouraged and conditions tend to eliminate all but those who can hold their own in the pleasures of luxury. It is not easy to deal with a question like this.

State Treasurer Sherrick of Indiana gambled with State funds and has been removed. Insurance company directors in New York gambled with trust funds and—well, as to removal, time will tell.

CHINA'S NEW ARMY.

It is said that the new Chinese military program includes the organization of a force of 40,000 men in each of 20 provinces.

This will make a formidable army. The English, German and French officers employed to train Chinese recruits were dismissed and the entire work of military organization is in the hands of Japanese.

International relations will have to be readjusted.

Hitherto when a missionary has been insulted by a Chinese mob, the outrage has been atoned for by a cession of land to the missionary's government. And it is said that land so obtained is very cheap. One insult is worth thousands of square miles or a safe deep harbor. Or if a trader from Europe or America gets into trouble there is no question where right lies. The Chinese are always wrong and they must pay.

All this is going to be stopped. Justice will have something to say and force will not be so arbitrarily applied. With an army of 800,000 men and a navy to correspond, China will not be prey for anybody.

It may be hoped, however, that she will not seek to use her tremendous force against the West as the Western powers have used theirs against her. But have we any right to think her morality is superior to ours?

PARIS COUNCIL IN LONDON.

From the Toronto World.

For a week in mid-October there will be seen the unprecedented spectacle of the Municipal Council of Paris transacting its business in the metropolis of the British Empire. This is the latest, and not the least remarkable, result of the entente cordiale between the two great and free nations of Western Europe. Probably never before in the history of the world has so extraordinary a change passed over two peoples so near each other in space and so far removed in real understanding of each other. The discovery that the real Englishman in his native air was the exact antipodes of the popular notion of that maligned individual seems to have come upon Frenchmen with all the force of a revelation. Proficient as France is in the graceful extension of national courtesies, for once her welcome was admittedly excelled by the warmth and sincerity of the English greeting at Portsmouth.

TYRANNY OF HAT FASHION.

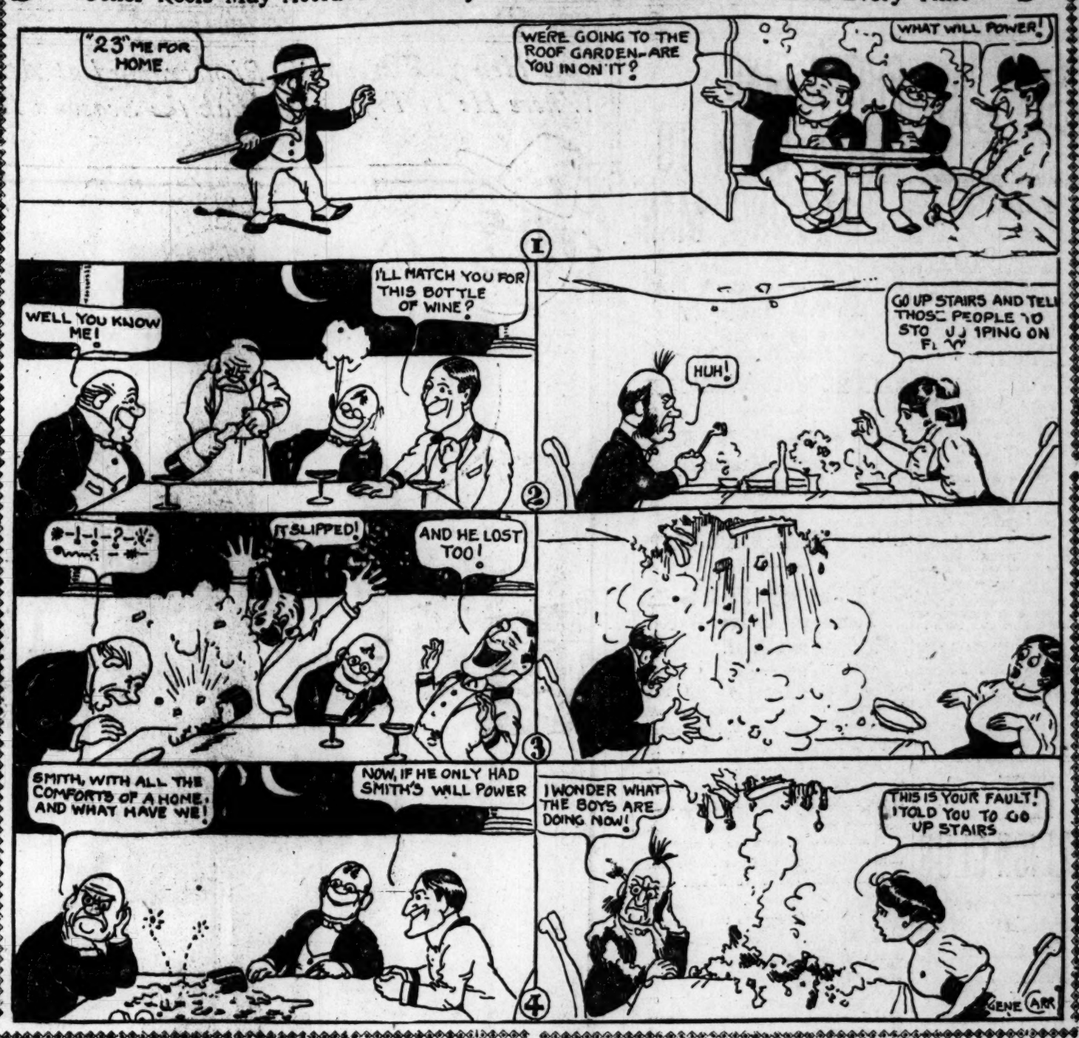

From the Cleveland Leader.

He who now appears in straw upon Sept. 15 proclaims himself unfashionable, behind the times, eccentric or penniless. This is the edict of fashion. Why this arbitrary date? One can wear summer shoes until the frost if he so desires, and summer shirts and summer ties. Appearing in blue serge after Sept. 15 does not necessarily stamp a man as one of the socially impossible. But in the matter of hats fashion is obdurate. 'Twas ever thus. "If ne be not in love," says one of Shakspeare's characters, "there is no believing in old signs. He brushes his hat o' mornings. What does that bode?" Thus we find it "an old sign" even in Shakspeare's time.

LOCHINVAR: 1905.

I.

Oh, the young Lochinvar has come out of the West!
In all the wide border his auto was best.
He stayed not for license, he stopped not for stone;
He had two good arms and he rode not alone.
He eloped with the girl in his flaming red car;
Have ye e'er heard of knight like the young Lochinvar?

II.

Her daddy found out, as a matter of course,
And quickly gave chase on his speediest horse.
He chased them like fury; he rode like the wind,
But Loch and his love left him far, far behind,
For Loch as a chauffeur was surely a star,
And the girl she said "Go it, my dear Lochinvar!"

III.

They rode far away, and they never paused once
While the old man was doing equestrian stunts,
And the preacher was hired and the job was done brown
Ere pop and his nag reached the edge of the town.
Most gallant of lovers, and swiftest by far,
Have ye e'er heard of knight like the young Lochinvar?

NEW YORK EDITORIAL OPINION

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The World thinks that the Democratic pot can ill afford to call the Republican kettle black in the matter of insurance company and trust gifts to political campaigns. It says: "Judge Parker and the Democrats cannot make partisan capital out of the New York Life's gifts to the Republican campaign funds. Beyond question some insurance companies also gave money to the Democrats. They were other contributions of equal impropriety.

"Mr. Perkins cannot defend his payment of New York Life money to Mr. Bliss on the ground that it was necessary to protect insurance assets from the Democratic party. To use the money of policyholders to promote the success of any party was dishonorable and corrupt.

"There is no partisanship in corruption. It menaces every party in menacing the nation. Decent men of all parties should unite in demanding State and Federal corrupt practices acts to stop the evil."

"A United States Judge at Trenton—let us give his name—Judge William M. Lanning, yesterday charged the United States grand jury to look up the matter of sending 'flashy' postcards through the mails," remarks the American.

"It is high time that some official took notice of this growing evil. Any New Yorker who walks Broadway or other avenues of trade must notice that week by week the mailing cards exposed for sale in shop windows are progressing from mere vulgarity to absolute indecency. Some are of a sort that should promptly bring the seller or the man who sends them through the mails before a criminal court.

"The matter is one of more than ordinary importance. The purchaser of such articles is usually a degenerate seeking them for the gratification of his own vulgar and depraved taste. The purest minded maiden, the most refined wife, may at any time have delivered to her by the Government of the United States a card carrying an indecent suggestion, or a vulgar innuendo, open to all to read, exposing her to the ridicule of all who see it in passing.

"The Postoffice Department is doing something to stop this. In New York—the center of the contemptible business of printing these cards—the Police Department might do more."

"Major-General Corbin impresses upon young army officers in his report the importance of living within their incomes. While the admonitions to lead the simple life are passing among American soldiers it is interesting to turn to the forces of the crown in Britain and find them about 4000 short of needed officers because the British subaltern cannot on his pay alone keep up the expenses of mess, club and band and his social obligations," says the Evening World.

"Heretofore our army has been comparatively free from the evils of personal extravagance. Up to the Spanish war the regulars were a small body. There were no such allurements to the service then as now, for instance, in the chances of foreign or colonial service. This new feature of our militarism is one of the ghosts that come walking with us in our status as 'a world power.'

"As a plain proposition, not to be wiped out by special instances of inducement, our army is the best paid in the world."

RHYMES OF THE FUNNY MEN

LOOPING THE LOOP.

(With apologies to the Late Lord Tennyson.)

One dime and clanging bell,
And then a long incline;
And, going up, I hope there'll be no yell
Or other sign.

But such a track as sloping seems so steep—
Too high for man to go—
And then the ground is most a hundred feet
Or more below.

The top and then we poise,
And then a sizzing zoop;
And may she make no loud, soul-piercing noise
When Mamie loops the loop.

And though from out our bourne of sea and shore,
That loop has whirled her far,
She always says: "Let's do it just once more
Before we leave the car!"

—Puck.

LAMENT FOR THE SUBWAY TAVERN.

There ain't no preachers any more
A-settin' with the Demon Booze,
The sign "Changed Hands" is on the door,
With hell to pay and more to lose—
Where kin I quote me Scriptures now
While orderin' me rock-and-rye?
Where kin I git free lunch, yet know
That angels bless me passin' by?

The barkeeps, every place I go,
Don't seem to have no grand ideals;
They draw the beer and let it flow
Without no missionary spiels,
No golden texts to comfort me,
No tracts to lift me o'er the snag—
Without the help of Bishop F.
How kin a guy enjoy a jag?

There ain't no pleasure any more
A-fightin' of the Demon Rum—
Beautiful Johnson's locked the door
And put refinement on the bum.
Yet as I drink beneath the "El"
A far-off Subway voice I hear
Boom like some grand cathedral bell,
"Beer up, beer up, my brethren! Beer!"

—Wallace Irwin in New York Globe.

THE MODERN OPHELIA.

All incoherently she speaks,
She gazes in the air
And vainly sighs since what she seeks,
Alas, is never there.

She babbles on—pathetic din!
Oh, melancholy scene!
She's working out the puzzles in
The latest magazine.

THE CASHIER GIRL

Her Aunt's Experience Will Interest the Girls.

BY T. O. M'GILL

"DO YOU know," peeped the Cashier Girl, as we handed over the check for our fruit and tea this morning, "that sleep makes all the difference in the world in people's tempers?"

"Sure Mike," agreed the Scribbler.

"Miss Hogarty at the coffee and I," she went on, "can tell almost every morning when the regulars who come early have had a good night's sleep."

"Sleep is a panacea for all ills," quoted the Scribbler.

"Yes, siree," went on the Cashier Girl. "Now there's that nice-looking old gentleman over there, putting sugar on his cantaloupe. About four mornings a week he comes in here and says 'Good morning,' just as pleasant as can be, and then he says, 'I had a fine sleep last night,' and on them mornings he's a perfect little gentleman; but about two mornings a week he acts as though his poor relations had just come to town and he had to get up to read the paper before the visitors got at it, and on them mornings he says mean things about the bill of fare and kicks about the coffee something awful, and then we find out that he didn't sleep well the night before."

"Sleep is a grand thing," said the Scribbler.

"Every time I think of getting up in the morning," continued the Cashier Girl, "I think of Aunt Mary. When she was a little girl she used to make a regular 'rough house' when they tried to get her up to go to school in the morning—at least this is the way the family tell it—and when she was being pried out of bed she used to say: 'Just you all wait till I graduate, and then I'm going to sleep and sleep and sleep and make the sleeping museum freaks look like babies.' Well, she graduated, and grandpap went broke about that time and the family all had to go to work, Aunt Mary along with the rest. She got a job in a contractor's office, working on the books, and she had to get up at 6 o'clock in the morning, an hour earlier than she had to get up to go to school. That nearly broke her heart, but she said: 'Never you all mind; I'll get married to a rich man some day, and then I'm going to sleep like a lady. Don't forget that.'

"Well, say, do you know what she did? She fell in love with the contractor's foreman, and when they got married he started in business for himself, and as he was not rich, she had to get up at 5 o'clock in the morning to get her husband off to his business. When the folks gave her the laugh she used to say: 'Never mind, Fred'—that was her husband—'will get rich some day and then I can get that sleep.'

"Well, 'Fred' got rich on two big contracts, and they were on Easy street and she could sleep all she wanted to, but she had got so used to getting up early in the morning that she couldn't sleep after 5 o'clock, and she said the only regret she had was that she couldn't stay up nights to get out in society, because the loss of sleep made her sick."

"Maybe she didn't miss much," ventured the Scribbler.

"I guess not," said the Cashier Girl as she rubbed up the brass on the shelf of her cage, "but ain't that a horrible finish to have when you've got money?"

IGNORANCE.—In Mexico one American dollar is equal to two Mexican dollars, and a little more, the rate being regulated by the exchange rate. You can exchange American money for Mexican money here as well as in Mexico. For one American dollar you will receive in St. Louis two Mexican dollars and 6 cents.

K.—Pure olive oil is a good vegetable laxative. Put it on your food—a tablespoonful or less at each meal. Any intelligent druggist can prepare what you ask about. Hot water and lemon would perhaps help you. Be very careful to eat as little as you need and observe what food you digest readily. You must have regular exercise or work out of doors.

R. M. F.—You are mistaken. You can get the trouble off your mind. It really amounts to little, and you may live to see that all has been for the best. Push hard in the employment you have and you will get something better. A man ought to be ashamed not to be so busy as to forget his troubles. Why, he can even read books or go to free lectures.

H. H. W. R.—Celery and onions have been recommended as nerve food. Of other foods somebody has written: "Butter used in excess renders its users phlegmatic and lazy. Apples are excellent for brain workers, and everybody who has much intellectual work to do should eat them freely. Potatoes, on the contrary, render one dull, invidious and lazy, when eaten constantly and in excess. To preserve the memory, even to an advanced age, nothing is better than mustard." It is not easy to swallow the mustard statement.

W. K.—If the Sunday School children for the party are little, decorate the rooms with Mother Goose pictures, children's advertisement pictures, and so on. Put the children at a table or tables, and give each child a picture or picture book, and have a paint box near, and let them color the pictures. Then set them to playing games, such as "Going to Jerusalem," ring games, and so on, with music if you can have it. For refreshments give them sandwiches, cocoa or milk, ice cream and cake. Have a cheap toy at each plate, as gay as possible. After refreshments hang a stout paper bag of mottoes in the middle of the room, and let the children hit it with a stick, to see which can break it and scatter the mottoes.

Bobbie Quixote

STILL ANOTHER "SKINDICATE" STORY

By Ivan Whin

The Post-Dispatch Novelist

OF COURSE Hobbs & Hawk got a new stenographer. Hawk hired her. He had a philosophy about stenographers.

"They ought to be good-looking, because a good-looking woman makes an office attractive to clients and her employers who have to see a great deal of her are entitled to some esthetic compensation for the restraint her presence puts upon them. She ought to be built on a generous plan, because such women are more even tempered and are seldom ill. We spent $3000 fitting up our offices, and the stenographer ought to dress well to harmonize with the good furniture. Then she ought to be capable, for this is a business shop and not a drawing room."

Hawk's choice was christened Bridget. At one stage in her life she called herself Brigida and subsequently became Beatrice. Her friends called her Bee.

While she could not qualify for the presidency of the Wednesday Club and wouldn't know how to begin writing a series of lectures on "Travels in Italy" without first traveling in Italy, she was not devoid of intelligence.

Her large, long fingers were so well acquainted with the typewriter keyboard and her mind so nearly enrapped with the dictionary that she could take most of her work directly on the machine and turn out good-looking letters, etc.

In dress Bee was inclined to be flossy. Her hair was red to her enemies, auburn to her acquaintances and old gold to her friends. Her eyes were small and shadowed by fat lids around which laughter played easily. Her mouth was wide and disclosed healthy teeth of wonderful whiteness. I do not know where she bought her complexion, but it was all right.

Hobbs' brother told Bobbie that she was a stunner and Bobbie, after a look-over said she was a hummer.

The gang agreed, however, that she lacked Mamie's good nature and none seemed to make an impression save Bobbie. His childish cleanliness, pretty color, suave talk and fashionable clothes, attracted her. Ed and Mac were as fashionable, and Mac had the same girlish complexion, with the added attraction of a thriving mustache, but she said they were dissipated, and as for the others she curled her lip in disdain for them.

Bobbie, ever awake to signs of feminine appreciation, sat up to her. She typewrote for him gratis and demanded $8 in advance for a similar task Mac tried to get on the same terms. Could affection be more convincingly proven?

Her father was connected in so indefinable way with railroads. He seemed to be a hustler, was ever with general passenger and freight agents whom he called by their first names, and was frequently absent from the city for long terms. Whatever the nature of his work it was not largely profitable, for he was generally out of funds, his family lived poorly, and Bee's wages not only clothed her but aided in meeting family expenses.

All this Bobbie gathered after a few weeks' acquaintance, and yet he laid a plan to draw dollars from Kellett's pocket. Kellett had a penchant for boasting of his wealthy connections, meaning thereby his influence with his railroad friends who were possessed of money. Bobbie designed to use Kellett as a catspaw.

That was when the gang was floating the Cafe Catering company.

As Bobbie laid it out to Kellett one evening while waiting for Bee to finish dressing for the theater it was a plain business proposition.

Eighty per cent of the saloons in the central part of the city set lunches for their patrons. Each saloon hires a lunchman, usually a colored cook, who either in his own home or in a small kitchen attached to the saloon cooks certain articles such as roast beef, corn-beef, roast pork, fish, potato salad, beans, beets and soup, that at stated hours are served from a steam-table in the bar by the cook.

Sometimes the cook buys the materials from an allowed sum and more often the proprietor of the bar makes the purchases.

Bobbie's scheme involved wholesale purchases and wholesale cooking of the lunch layouts for all these restaurants.

"Five hundred dollars will finance the scheme," he said. "We can afford to do business on a basis of 20 per cent less than the saloons are now paying, hire a good chef and give them better results than they get under their present system. The saloon porter can serve the lunch without cost to the bar. We deliver the cooked food in pans for their steamtables and take the empty pans and dishes away."

Kellett saw the value of the scheme in a flash. He had much acquaintance with bars and knew, generally, that the lunch business was extensive. He had heard much of the benefits of consolidation from his friends, the railroad men, much argument concerning trusts, which were represented as increasing quality and quantity while making money out of the economics of concentrated management.

"Say, young man, I'd like to get in on that. I pride myself, young man, on my ability to see an opportunity, and you show me a fine one. Have you got your capital."

"That's the trouble. I've only got $200. If you can raise $300 you own 60 per cent of the stock."

"It's a go. When do you need the money?"

"In a month or two."

"Then that's all right," said Kellett, beaming. "Say no more about it. It's as good as done."

But they did say much more about it—not that night, but on subsequent occasions. They had lengthy conversations and so much information did Kellett collect and so enthused did he become that Bobbie grew almost to believe in his own scheme.

Mac had gone on the road with a "long-hair," which is to say a fake dentist, who pulled teeth painlessly, to the accompaniment of a strident band of plantation singers in the glare of gasoline flares on country town squares. Ed was keeping out of a vengeful man's way and Charley was managing a pool tournament. Thus Bobbie was left alone, and he sometimes wondered if the Cafe Catering Co. wouldn't really be a big thing.

Bee's rich aunt died, the aunt who had always promised to leave Bee "something nice." The legacy proved to be $277.63—not a sum to be sneezed at in her circumstances, and yet pitifully short of her expectation. She aroused herself from disappointment, saying: "Well, anyway, it's enough to get me some clothes, and the Lord knows I need them."

After a day or two she was quite gay over the prospect of clothes, particularly as Bobbie asked her to go to the Veiled Prophet's ball.

"Will I go? Will a kid eat candy? Wait till you see me float, Bobbie. I'll be the queen, no matter who they crown. I've always wanted to go and I've had plenty of chances, but I'd never go because I didn't have a dress fit to be seen on the floor. I wouldn't just go to the gallery and look on and I wouldn't go on the floor looking like a guy."

The dress absorbed her. She planned it and tore down the fabric of her imagination a dozen times. She could talk of nothing else and Bobbie's knowledge of feminine attire, which was very unmasculine in its detail, made him a sympathetic listener.

At first she would make the gown with her own capable fingers, assisted by a girl who sewed by the day. As she pondered Bee rejected the home-made gown.

"Not for mine. It'll be my one chance to shine and I want the best my money will buy. It's a man-tailor for this."

The gown was to cost $125 and accessories $35 more.

One morning Bobbie dropped into the office of Hobbs & Hawk.

Bee was in a temper. Her eyes were red. Evidently she had wept. Hobbs, who passed Bobbie, greeted him genially. Hawk was telling a funny story to a client. Evidently it was not an office row that ruffled the fair one.

Bobbie wondered but could not see a clew. He opened conversation with a pleasant topic.

"How's that swell ball gown getting on?" he asked.

Instead of answering Bee dropped her head over her typewriter and sobbed.

"O, Bobbie! I'm such a fool," she said. "There ain't going to be any ball gown. I can't go."

Bobbie patted her shoulder.

"There, there, don't cry. Tell me all about it."

"Paw strung me for my money, and I'll never have a decent dress as long as I live."

A girlish blush overspread Bobbie's face. He half rose from his chair.

"What's that? You don't mean to say" — He halted awkwardly.

"Paw said he had a grand business opportunity, something that would give him a regular income and all he needed was $300. I knew it was a stall and held out, but he accused me of never loving him and being hard and selfish and talked so much of the scheme and we've been so poor and I thought there might be a chance that this scheme would give him a regular income and I gave up. This morning when it was too late I saw how foolish I'd been. He's a regular Col. Sellers. He's always getting into things and planning to build railroads and bridges and buy real estate that railroads have got to have for terminals and nothing ever comes of it. At least, he never makes anything out of his schemes. Some other man makes the money if there's any made and he gets a little for his expenses. And what do you think this latest scheme is: Cooking free lunches for saloons! O!" she tore her tear-wet kerchief in rage.

"Say, Bee"—Bobbie's mouth was dry and the blush still crimsoned his face, "say, don't you worry. We'll fix it up so you get the dress."

"Get out," she said. "What can you do? I suppose you'll write me a check for $150 and say: 'There, little girl, be happy.' Bah!"

In spite of her scorn Bobbie did not flinch.

"Look here, Bee, I want to help you and I believe I can."

"Give me $150 then. I don't care for the rest, but I'm mad for that ball gown."

Bobbie drew a wad of bills from his pocket and counted out on the sliding leaf of her typewriting desk $275.

Her eyes were wide with surprise. She pushed her chair back.

"What you mean?" she whispered.

"That's your money."

"I can't take that money from you." Her voice was weak and not convincing.

"You can take that money. It's yours."

"No," she said decisively, "I was tempted, but I won't."

"Yes, you will."

"I won't."

"But it's yours."

"How can anything you've got be mine?"

"Your father gave it to me this morning. I didn't know he was getting the money from you. He told me his friend in the Missouri Pacific had staked him. The free lunch scheme was my scheme. It isn't a bad idea, but I never intended to work it. I just played it for a little graft. I wouldn't rob you, though. If he'd just borrowed it from his railroad friend I knew his friend never expected to get it back and I'd froze to it, but as he got it from you the scheme's off. Take it and buy the dress and we'll have the time of our young lives."

"Wh—what'll you say to father?"

"I'll tell him the scheme fell through and as I couldn't get hold of him I turned the money over to you and if you ever let go again you're not the girl I think you are."

"Poor father," she said softly, but smiling. "Oh, Mr. Hawk, can I get off now? I want to do some shopping."

"Go along," said Hawk.

She ran for her hat and gloves. "Come on, Bobbie," she cried. "We'll hustle and spend it before I have a chance to repent. I want a suit I saw the other day for $50 and a $20 hat and some other things and I'm going to scare that man dressmaker by paying for the ball gown in advance."

And that was the end of the Cafe Catering Co.

PHOTOGRAPHING LIGHTNING.

LIGHTNING can only be photographed at night. It is also impossible to use any cap or shutter for this work, inasmuch as the eyes do not observe a flash of lightning till at least a tenth of a second after it has passed.

So that, having focused your camera beforehand, draw the shutter and hold the camera in the direction you think the flash will take; and you must trust to the courtesy of the lightning to be there to time.

HOW TO MAKE A FOUNTAIN.

ANY clever boy can make a fountain for his yard and have goldfish in the basin and water plants about the edge.

Take a good-sized barrel and cut it in two, one part being one-third of the whole, the other two-thirds. Use the smaller part for the basin and the larger for the reservoir. Sink the basin almost flush into the ground and bring a lead pipe from underneath coming up into the center. Take a large thimble or the top of a watering can and see that the small holes are well pierced through. Solder onto the tube. Raise the other piece of barrel four feet above the level of the basin, either banking or blocking it up with rock work. Insert the other end of the tube three inches from the bottom and cover the end over with fine gauze to prevent the fountain getting stopped up. Rockwork and growing plants should be led up to the fountain, trying to make it as inconspicuous as possible.

ORIGIN OF SHOE-THROWING.

SHOEMAKING was a distinct trade as far back as 1600 B. C., and reference is made in Scripture to different symbolic usages in connection with sandals or shoes.

The delivery of a shoe was used as a testimony in transferring a possession. A man plucked off his shoe and gave it to his neighbor ,and this was "a testimony in Israel."

The throwing of a shoe on property was a symbol of new ownership, as "Over Eodom will I cast out my shoe."

From these ancient practices came the old custom in England and Scotland of throwing an old shoe after a bride on her departure to her new home to signify that the parents gave up all control over their daughter, says Stray Stories.

In Turkey it is the bridegroom who is pelted by the wedding guests with slippers.

A LIFESAVING SUIT.

A LONDON tailor has invented a new life-saving coat and gaiters, with which it is possible for a person clothed therein to maintain an upright position when immersed in the water, even if not possessing any knowledge of swimming. The coat resembles in appearance an ordinary pilot's coat, but it is fitted with an air belt which is inflated with air through a tube. The gaiters each weigh two pounds, and are fitted with two brass wings or blades fastened to the back of the heel. As the wearer moves his feet in the water these wings open and shut and not only propel the wearer along like oars, but enable him to maintain an upright position from the waist upward in the water. A practical demonstration of the utility of the invention was recently undertaken in the Thames by the inventor, and its efficiency and life-seving qualities clearly shown, even when moving against the tide.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

DRINKING WATER IN O'FALLON PARK.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It may be all right for the people to give their attention to the Sunday lid, but how about the lid put on the spring water in the south end of O'Fallon Park? It was open for everybody for 40 years, but is now walled in and a big padlock makes it strictly private and is used only by the superintendent living in the park. By what authority was this done? The matter should be investigated.

ANNA WALCOTT.

CITY TAXES.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While the question as to how to secure a million population for our city is being agitated and suggestions advanced by a portion of our enterprising citizens how and by what means to secure the desired increase, another portion of our citizens is engaged in formulating plans how to increase the indebtedness of our city to the amount of $9,000,000, for so-called "city improvements."

Can this latter undertaking add to some of the contemplated features that are to be used in inducing those that are to make our additional population? Would it strike the would-be comer favorably to tell him he will have to pay an additional tax to the already burdensome one? This is a question that should have due consideration, and the "Million Population" Committee should, by all means, give it attention.

TAXATION.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have noticed drivers of patrol wagons going on a call with a pipe or cigar in their mouth and seemingly no life in either horses or driver, almost asleep.

Second. Why can't those slushing wagons, in all sense and decency, be ordered out early in the morning, so they can at least clean up around Union Station before the arrival of trains? They get there around 8 a. m., and it is a common thing to see the drivers turn on the water without any warning, and consequently mud and water is dashed all over the clothes of travelers. Where are the police, or have they no authority?

Third. You have no doubt a good fire department, but when they are called to a fire, why should they go a hunting for plugs? Also when they do find them it seems to me they have to necessarily string out about 10 blocks away from the fire, necessitating more hose and decreasing the force of water. Why not ask the Chief his opinion of the cistern system used other places, and above all things make the street car motormen recognize the authority of the fire department to the use of the streets and stop if the department is within a square of them?

Fourth. If there is such a city ordinance as to keeping streets repaired between tracks, please have the Street Commissioner take a healthy walk up Wash street or along Washington avenue or Olive street. It is a shame to have streets in such condition.

Fifth. The Chief of Police can get busy by getting out his raiding wagons and get his eye on Twentieth and Morgan and a few more, but he has a better list than we can give him, and both Gov. Folk and the Chief know their duty without waiting for complaints to come in. I say let us all wake up, get a hustle on ourselves and do something besides closing saloons. Show the rest of the country we are doing something in the right direction.

Mr. Proprietor: It makes no difference whether you have a grocery, dry goods or drug store, a saloon, hotel or rooming house, or, in other words, it makes no difference what kind of a business you have, or where it is located, you know that there is someone, somewhere, who will buy it, but you don't know where that buyer is. It is our business to find him for you.

We invite buyers for any and all kinds of business to tell us what they want, and we agree to send them, free, a description of the business, with name and address of owner. Thus, he has your name and takes up the deal with you direct, neither paying a commission.

Under this plan, with buyers making known their desires to us daily, isn't it reasonable to suppose that in the course of a few days or weeks we will get a number of inquiries for a business like yours?

We list your place of business in our office for six months and submit as often as we think we have a buyer for it, for only $1. Send in your list at once; there may be an inquiry today for just such a business as yours.

PUPILS WEEP FOR BELOVED JANITOR

Carroll School Mourns Frederick Krage, for 35 Years Children's Friend.

The flag flies at half mast over Carroll School, at Ninth and Carroll streets. The voices of the school-children are hushed and the children are sad.

Frederick Krage, janitor of the school for 35 years, who watched over and for all the years had watched over and cared for the children who came and went as if they had been his own children and grandchildren, is dead. There is not a child at Carroll School or a man or woman who once attended it, who does not share the sorrow of the children's unselfish friend.

When the funeral is held Friday afternoon, from the house where he has lived for years, at 1800 South Eighth street, the school will be closed, and the children will watch the hearse with tears in their eyes.

Krage was 79 years old, and had led a life remarkable for its steadiness. He was the father of 16 children, and he survived 15 of them. His only surviving child, Henry Krage, a plumber, lived with his father.

Last Friday Mrs. Mary Hagler, a daughter of the aged man, died of brain fever. The news of her death was kept from her father, who had been ill for two months.

Children's Shouts Hushed.

As soon as the tidings of his death were received at the school, the flag was lowered, and the children, when they learned of it, did not need to be told to be quiet, for they had no heart for play.

They gathered in groups in the playgrounds, and agreed that the least they could do was to bring their pennies and nickels to buy flowers to be laid on his coffin. For they remembered that he loved flowers almost as much as he loved children, and had often talked o them of flowers.

The pennies and nickels were brought, and the tribute of the children's affection will have the most conspicuous place among the floral offerings at the funeral.

DOVE OF PEACE CAUSE OF WAR

Locket With Bud on It Cause of Woman's Fright—One Fined.

A gold lock with the picture of a dove bearing an olive branch engraved upon t, was the cause of a peace disturbance case in Judge Tracy's court Wednesday, causing Dora Apple of 2314 Easton avenue to be fined $50. She appealed from the decision.

The proceedings were instituted by Nettie True of 2611 North Ninth street. According to her testimony she was walking along Garrison avenue when Dora Apple tried to grab the locket which was around her neck. Upon meeting resistance Dora Apple said the locket was hers and then both women went to the police station to settle the matter.

A Broadway jeweler swore that he sold the locket to Nettie True more than two and one-half years ago. Dora Apple testified that she had owned it eight years.

Judge Tracy decided the locket belonged to ettie True.

ADMIRED THE ADMIRAL.

So Thieves Returned Bowles' Documents Stolen From Residence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Because of their professed admiration for the naval record of Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, U. S. N., retired, robbers returned to the Admiral property they had taken from his house in the Back Bay district of this city.

Two men, pretending to be gas inspectors, were admitted to the Bowles residence by a maid. When they left the house they carried off an iron box, which somewhat resembled a treasure chest. The box contained documents of value only to Mr. Bowles, and a gold chain.

The papers were returned today by a messenger to the owner with a letter informing him that the property was restored because of his excellent naval record. The thieves added they would keep the chain as a souvenir.

SENATOR BURTON FILES DEMURRER

Contends Indictment in Rialto Case Is Vague and Incomplete.

DOESN'T STATE CHARGE

Says There Is No Statement of Postoffice Officials He Saw for Company.

Joseph Burton of Kansas, United States Senator, charged with appearing before the Postoffice Department to prevent a fraud order against the Rialto Grain and Securities Co., filed a demurrer, through F. W. Lehmann, his attorney, in the United States Circuit Court Wednesday against the new indictment returned against him since the Supreme Court nullified his former indictment on technical grounds.

Then objections are urged to the indictment, in part as follows:

It fails to inform the accused of the nature and cause of the accusation.

It doesn't show that any proceeding, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation, arrest or other matter by or against the Rialto Grain and Securities Co. was pending in the Postoffice Department; that there was an inquiry before the Postoffice Department to determine if the company was conducting a scheme to defraud; that the Postmaster-General had authority to make any order in the matter alleged to be pending before him.

It doesn't describe any matter pending before the department sufficiently to advise the defendant of what he has to meet.

There is no allegation of any matter pending in which the United States has any interest.

What Did Burton Do?

No fact shows that any service rendered or to be rendered was in relation to any matter pending.

The first, second and third counts in the suit are objected to on the ground that they do not state facts constituting an offense against the Federal laws, are not sufficiently clear to inform the plaintiff of what he is to meet, do not state with whom an alleged agreement was made, do not state when alleged services were to be rendered and whether within his official term, do not tell what was to be done by him and do not allege that services were rendered or that he agreed to render services.

The fourth and fifth counts are objected to on the ground that they do not state facts as to services rendered, that the allegations were partial and defective statements of what, if anything, was done by the defendant, do not give names of any persons defendant is alleged to have visited, to whom he is alleged to have made statements, nor of officers who were visited by him, and do not show whether representations were made to the Postmaster-General or some others.

"The time for hearing arguments on the demurrer has not been set.

SPOKE TO OTHERS AS TO O'MEARA

Neighbors of Contractor Assaulted Say Young Man Asked for "M. Taylor."

Four witnesses will be ready to aid John B. O'Meara, former Lieutenant-Governor, in identifying the mysterious assailant who slashed his right cheek during an encounter on the lawn of his home at 4429 Washington boulevard, after demanding his money and displaying a revolver.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson of 4439 Washington boulevard, F. Pepper of 4448 Washington boulevard and Louis Abel of 4430 Delmar boulevard reported Wednesday that a man, whom all describe as tall, slender, bearded and of intensely nervous manner, has visited their homes and made inquiries similar to that he made of O'Meara before attacking him.

Mrs. Johnson said that the man entered their yard at night through a rear gate from the alley, and, seeing her and her husband seated on the lawn, asked if "Mr. Taylor" lived there. His next inquiry was for direction to 4432 Washington avenue.

"I started to point out to him that there was no 4433, but my husband said: 'He's only after mischief.'

"We saw him go to the next house, knock at the door, then, as no one came, he went away.

"The name 'Taylor' is that with which O'Meara's assailant prefaced his attack.

Asked About Neighbors.

"Abel was aroused by an inquiry at his door for 'Mr. Ferguson' and for 4433 Delmar boulevard. He told the man that the number would be on the other side of the street, and as the man began inquiries whether certain of the neighbors were at home, he told him to talk to a policeman.

"The Pepper home was visited in the daytime by a man who represented himself as a telephone inspector. Children followed him upstairs through curiosity, and reported that he left without touching, and almost without looking, at the telephone, when he saw that he could not get rid of the children.

Mrs. Ferrand, who conducts a restaurant at 622 North Taylor avenue, has told the police that a young man answering the description of O'Meara's assailant has eaten at her restaurant every evening lately. Tuesday evening he was not there.

O'Meara Wednesday reiterated his belief that the assault was for robbery and was not the work of a man with a political or personal grudge or of a hired assassin.

"The man could easily have killed me when he first approached," said O'Meara, "and if he had wanted to kill me, rather than to rob me, I do not think he would have put me on the defensive by his demand for money."

O'Meara said that his statement, made soon after the encounter, that his assailant had taken away his hat, as well as his own, was a mistake. He found his hat in the house later, and remembered that he had not worn it, as he at first thought.

MAYOR HAS AX FOR PREACHERS

Belleville's Executive Comes to Defense of the 100 Saloons.

TEMPERANCE TOWN? NO!

In Vision Sees Bustling City Another Deserted Village.

Mayor Fred Kern of Belleville, aggrieved over a pulpit allusion to the hundred saloons of the town as the source of its religious indifference, rushes to defend the saloons with a public statement.

He characterizes the minister as "him of the stripe who likes to see his name and mug" in the newspapers.

Inability of a Belleville hardware merchant to locate a Belleville parsonage on the map he ascribes not so much to the merchant's "obtuseness as to the inconspicuousness of the parsonage occupant, who is still groping in the darkness of a labyrinthian obscurity."

Sees Dark Picture.

The Mayor metaphorically goes into a trance and sees a dark picture.

"Imagine Belleville a temperance town!" he writes. "What sort of a place would it be? All improvement would stop. Grass and mud in their respective seasons would disgrace the streets. The police and fire departments would have to be cut in two or abolished altogether. The light contract would have to be revoked and the city thrust into primitive darkness. The town would lose one-half of its industries. Thousands of people would be thrown out of work. The schools would lose half of their pupils and half of the teachers would be compelled to seek jobs in other and more liberal towns."

The Mayor says that when the preachers undertake to "vilify and slander" the hundred saloons which keep the grass down, the lights burning, the industries going and the people enjoyed and the schools open and the teachers in their jobs, which put out the fires and keep the peace, he will be on the spot to fight, bleed and die for them and give the preachers "blow for blow."

FEVER ENVELOPING ALL OF LOUISIANA

Nearly All Parishes Affected—Stygomyia Mosquitoes Are Shipped to Washington.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—Two jars marked "Perishable, this side up; handle with care," containing 400 specimens of the male and female type of stygomyia mosquitoes have been shipped to Surgeon-General Wyman of the Marine Hospital service by Dr. M. J. Roseneau, bacteriologist of that department. This is the first time that germ-spreading mosquitoes have ever been forwarded from this city.

The insects which Gen. Wyman will have in his possession in a day or two are to be examined in the Government laboratory at Washington, while Dr. Roseneau is searching for the yellow fever germ at the emergency hospital in this city.

The fever is gradually enveloping the entire State, and but few parishes within a radius of 100 miles from New Orleans have not become infected. In spite of relentless shotgun quarantines the disease has appeared in the most remote towns, which today are experiencing a great deal of trouble in getting it under control. Several cases have been brought to New Orleans from the country owing to insufficient hospital facilities.

As a precaution against the members of the troupe contracting fever, the Grand Opera House stock company, which arrived here last week from New York, has engaged the services of a trained yellow fever physician to watch over the players. Last night one of the actresses developed a severe cold, but she managed to reach her dressing room and get on the stage.

Just as the curtain was going up the physician made a hasty examination of her condition, and before he could get off the stage the audience saw him slipping through the wings. Queen Flavia and Rudolph Rassendyl, characters in the "Rupert of Hentzau," were going through one of their impassioned love scenes at the time.

The doctor's presence on the stage created an uproar, as the spectators recognized him as one of Surgeon White's assistants.

KILLED BY A FALL.

Special officers of the Wyoming Street Police Station, who investigated the death of William Hahn of 2717 South Seventh street, reported that Hahn had sustained injuries, which caused his death, in a fall, and was not assaulted, as was at first believed. The officers claim they have found witnesses who saw Hahn fall on the sidewalk at Broadway and Arsenal street Monday night.

Hahn was ill when he returned home, according to his wife, and a physician was called, who pronounced him suffering from concussion of the brain.

Witnesses say Hahn had a narrow escape from being run over by a freight train, as he fell directly across the track.

RAMSEY GETTING STATEMENT READY

Says His Retirement From the Ann Arbor Directorate Means Nothing.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—It is announced here that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Ann Arbor Railroad that Rudolph Kleybolte, J. E. Tolfree and Frank Durban were elected directors of that line, which is rated as a Gould property.

Parenthetically it is announced that Mr. Durban, who is President of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton road, another supposed Gould interest, succeeds Joseph Ramsey Jr.

Mr. Ramsey was busy preparing a statement of his work as President of the Wabash, to be used in his fight for re-election to the Wabash presidency, when found and asked about the Ann Arbor election.

He had not heard of it, but said that it meant nothing so far as his fight on Gould was concerned.

"It is not any more a Gould property," said he.

Relative to the statement he was preparing, he said:

"I think it is due to the Goulds, as well as to me, that I should make such a statement. This is because there have been so many complex statements and opinions published as to the differences that have arisen. I think something should be prepared that will clear the air. I won't make the statement I am preparing public, but the newspapers can no doubt secure it after it has gone to the stockholders. While I have been denied access to the transfer books, I have a very fair list of the stockholders. I don't know just when I will send my statement out, but it will be before the end of the week."

Mr. Ramsey said he was not surprised to hear that the committee representing the debenture "B" bondholders was likely to come out publicly to his support. At the same time, he said, he had no promises from the bondholders' committee. He continued: "I have gone into this fight on the merits of the case and with no prejudice to any one. Should I win I propose to conduct the property for the best interests of all the stockholders. That is all I can say."

His attention was called to the statement of George J. Gould that he "thought that the kindest course he (Gould) could pursue was to say nothing. "As for Mr. Gould," said Mr. Ramsey, "he may have meant from this he was refraining from talking for fear of saying something that would hurt my feelings. There is not, however, a thing he can say that I would not be glad to have said."

Mr. Ramsey said he had not intention of making public prior to the holding of the stockholders' meeting, on Oct. 10, any statement of the amount of stock and bonds that has come to his support. He remarked, however, that he had no reason to be disappointed.

"IRISH WISE TO LEAVE IRELAND"

Michael Hannick of St. Louis, Home From Tour, Says "Too Much Poverty."

THE ARCHBISHOP AT SEA

Story of Mgr. Glennon, Who Was on Same Ship With Hannick.

Michael Mannick, one of the big contractors of St. Louis, has just returned from a two-months trip to "Ireland and Europe." Mr. Hanick is an old resident of St. Louis, though not an old man, and this was his first voyage across the Atlantic.

"I left St. Louis July 25," said he to a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday.

"The Campania, on which I crossed, had the stormiest voyage in her history, but I never missed a meal, and was not worried.

"Archbishop Glennon was on board, and I knew that as long as we had him with us, there was no danger of shipwreck.

"His Grace, however, was quite sick, and appeared jealous of me, because I was so successful in defying the attacks of old Neptune.

"I made no delay in Queenstown, but, after getting through the customs, took a train for Cork City, where I remained only a day.

"From Cork I went to Limerick, where I visited the "Treaty Stone' and spent some time also investigating the great bacon factories.

"Limerick lace and Limerick bacon are equally famous.

"From Limerick I went to Nenagh in the County Tipperary, where I visited some old friends of mine.

"My next objective was my native town of Westport, County Mayo. It seemed to me that I had only left it yesterday, and when I stepped off the train an old rooster at the station commenced to crow, which was evidently intended as a cead mile failthe for me."

Mr. Hanick holds some radical opinions on the emigration question. Being asked if he had noticed any improvements in the country, he answered that the only ones he noticed were that the people had sense enough to leave it.

"I have been a liberal contributor to the cause of Ireland ever since I came to the United States, but will never give another cent to help keep the people there," he said. "When the occasion offers, however, I will subscribe to bring them to this country.

"As things stand now poverty is the only outlook, and I cannot see any hope for them in the future. For myself I would not take the best farm in Ireland for a gift, because living under English law, as administered in Ireland, would be intolerable.

"The majority of the people of Ireland at best, as I saw them, are existing, not living. Of course there are exceptions."

It was suggested to Mr. Hanick that the recent Land Act contained great promise of good to the Irish farmer.

To this he said: "All over Ireland the landlords are frustrating the administration of this law, endeavoring to sell the bad land at inflated prices, to which the Government adds a bonus, and retaining the good land in their own possession.

"I visited the Irish capital and found the people very hospitable and courteous there. The Dublin metropolitan police is the finest body of men I ever saw.

"I was sorry to notice that there were a great number of beggars in Dublin, who had a great faculty for 'spotting' a stranger.

"I particularly enjoyed the beef and mutton of Ireland. We have nothing as good here.

"I went to the races at Leapordstown and had a little experience. A 'gentleman' from Belfast put me 'next' to a 'good thing.' I gave him 4 shillings to invest, and he forgot to return.

"I spent a few weeks in England and was amazed at the extent of the poverty I witnessed in Liverpool.

"I also visited Blackpool, which is a celebrated watering place 70 miles from Liverpool. There were 150,000 holiday seekers there at the time. I was nearly starved at Blackpool. At the hotel where I stayed it took seven pieces of meat to make a mouthful.

"I had a few days in London, and to prove my sporting blood passed an afternoon at Epsom Downs.

"We had some celebrities home with us, including Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, and Lord Hartington.

WILL TRY BURBANK.

Lieutenant Must Go Before Court-Martial Because of Filipino Marriage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 20.—First Lieut. Sidney Burbank, Sixth Infantry, who left here for the Philippines in February, is to be court-martialed.

He is the officer who brought suit to annul an alleged marriage with Mrs. Conception Vasquez, a Filipino woman. Secretary Taft has made a personal investigation of the case, while in the Philippines, and before leaving Manila revoked the order suspending the court-martial and directed that Lieut. Burbank be tried. Mrs. Vasquez had a child 3 years old. She alleges that Lieut. Burbank is its father.

The engagement of Lieut. Burbank to a young woman of Leavenworth still exists.

TO MAKE MEN'S CORSETS.

Mrs. Wade of Corset Demonstration Fame Resigns Dressmakers' Assn.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Mme. Linda Ross Wade, who leaped into sudden fame through her corset demonstrations at the National Dressmakers' Convention last week, has resigned from the vice-presidency of that body and will remain in New York.

There are two reasons.

She was the star feature of the meetings in Masonic Temple. The newspapers gave columns to reports of her unique exhibitions. She was brought on from the West by M. E. Rubens, manager of the National Dressmakers' Association, who had promised to pay her in proportion to "how she made good." She says his ideas and hers on remuneratin do not agree, and it is hinted that her relations with Mme. Baker, President of the association, are strained.

To a reporter for the Post-Dispatch Mme Wade said: "I shall not cease trying until I know that I have not only shown the women how to wear corsets, but have made a corset for men that will be the right kind. There is no reason why men should have such enormous stomachs, and I am going to prove that with the right corseting they can have abdomens as flat as women have."

TURNS PICTURES TO WALL; TAKES ACID

"If You See Mollie, Tell Her I'll Be Dead," Message to His Wife.

THIRD ATTEMPT ON LIFE

Before Drinking Poison He Covers Face of Mirror in His Room.

"If you see Mollie, tell her I'll be dead."

This is what Dan Wright, 25 years old, a shoemaker of 1547 South Seventh street, said to James Ledden of 1501 South Thirteenth street, after swallowing an ounce of carbolic acid Wednesday in front of a saloon at Eighth and Julia streets. He is in a serious condition at City Hospital.

Wright ran out of the saloon Tuesday after taking a drink of whisky and drew a bottle of carbolic acid from his vest pocket. Ledden followed him to prevent an attempt at suicide.

Wednesday he entered the same saloon, and, suddenly displaying a razor, tried to cut his throat. Ledden and Bartender Henry Frank took the razor from him, and he went away.

Later he met Gus Harmen of 1311 Park avenue at Seventh and Marion streets, and accused Harmen of having followed him for three nights. Harmen was in the saloon at Eighth and Julia streets when Wright returned and they, with several others, drank together. Wright asked whether anyone had an envelope, and not getting one swallowed his whisky and said:

"This is the last drink I'll ever take."

Then he rushed out and drank the carbolic acid on the sidewalk.

It is said that Wright's wife left him last Friday, and that he has since been drinking heavily. He told his cousin, Henrietta Kettle of 1908 South Seventh street, Tuesday, that he intended to commit suicide. Then he went to his room and turned all the pictures and the clock face to the wall, covered the face of the mirror with cloth and left, locking the door.

FIRE IN CITY JAIL.

Prisoners Did Not Know of Stubborn Night Blaze Near Them.

While the prisoners slept undisturbed in their cells in City Jail Tuesday night, Capt. John C. Ernst and several members of Engine Co. No. 24 fought an hour before a stubborn blaze in the cupola was extinguished.

The smoke did not penetrate the Jail and the prisoners did not know there was a fire until it was over. The flames originated from crossed wires. The firemen tore up much of the roof in reaching the flames.

"THE REIGN OF GRAFT SHALL END"

Slogan of Philadelphia Citizens Party Convention Meeting Today.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—The "City" party, a reform organization, held its county convention today in the Academy of Music for the purpose of nominating candidates for Sheriff, Coroner and two county commissioners in opposition to the Republican nominees announced last Saturday.

The nominees named by the convention, it is announced, will be indorsed by the Democratic County Convention, to be held tonight.

Chairman Edwards, opening the convention, said:

"We proclaim that the reign of graft in the city of Philadelphia shall end. This is a body consecrated to a lofty purpose. I wish to offer a tribute of thanks to John Weaver, Mayor of Philadelphia (prolonged cheers), who has done more than any individual to give the people of Philadelphia an opportunity to win their freedom."

After the appointment of the permanent committees the convention took a recess to allow the committees to prepare their reports.

HOUNDS USED TO RUN DOWN RIOTERS

Two Posses Searching for Negro Slayers of Constable —Battle Expected.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 20.—Bloodhounds are being used in the search for the negro ringleaders in the race riot at Germantown. After arresting four negroes, Deputy Sheriff Miller is seeking the hiding place of the Bynums and Charles Redd.

The Citizens' Committee of Germantown also called on the Sheriff of Marshall County, Miss., who responded with bloodhounds.

Great efforts will be made to arrest Charles Redd, who, according to the dying statement of Constable Scott, stamped him in the stomach after he had been shot down by the Bynums.

The posses expects a battle in the capture of the negroes.

HIGH SCHOOL STARS' TRIAL.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 20.—Dave Lamb and Reppe, former Central High School stars of St. Louis, were the most important additions to the M. S. U. squad Tuesday. Lamb is heavy and probably will be given a trial in the line. Reppe will work out at quarter and if he makes good Salisbury, the St. Louis boy who played an excellent end last year, will be able to continue at that position instead of trying quarter, as Coach McLean intended.
